'Best Day In His Life'

Blind Boy 'Sees' JFK In Handshake

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A blind boy stood by the helicopter, waiting for President Kennedy. "I'm Fred Korth," said a tall man with a gentle voice. "I'm the secretary of the Navy."

"How do you do, Mr. Korth," said Joey Renzi, age 11. "Is he coming? Is the President coming?"

"No, not yet," said Korth. "Don't worry. We won't let him get away without seeing you. He wants to meet you."

It was a letter in Braille that Joey wrote to Kennedy which attracted the President's attention. In it, Joey told how he wanted to shake the President's hand because "it wouldn't do me any good to stand on the roadside while all the other kids are watching."

That's how it was that a blind boy was waiting at the Marine Corps recruit depot with the high-ranking officials alongside the helicopter which was to take Kennedy away to an aircraft carrier at sea.

The boy—born prematurely—has been blind virtually all his life. Doctors say an over-rich oxygen mixture in an incubator caused hemorrhages which destroyed his sight.

But he can see a great deal through his hands as he did Thursday, when, in his mind's own bright pictures, he saw the President.

All Joey heard was a big car stop, he felt a large hand reach for his and another touched his shoulder.

He told afterwards what was said:

"He said he enjoyed seeing me, and I told him what an honor it was to meet him, and he gave me a tie clasp, and I gave him my letter. And he said, 'I hope you can come to the White House and visit me sometime.'"

The tie clasp was a gold miniature PT boat with the word "Kennedy" on it.

The boy's letter told the President, "I will treasure this experience all my life."

What could Joey's hands tell him about the President?

"He's kind of tall," said Joey. "He's real neat looking. He has kind of like an English—no, I guess it's a New England—accent. And he has a strong grip. A real strong grip for a big, important man like the President."

After their brief talk, the President climbed into the waiting helicopter, the engine roared and dust flew.

Republicans In Contest Of Emotions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans appear to be heading into a contest in which emotional appeal may be matched against can-win claims in the selection of their 1964 residential nominee.

As matters stand 13 months before the party's convention, backers of Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., like to think of their man as the emotional favorite for a nomination entitling its bearer to buck the tide that usually flows for a president seeking a second term.

Supporters of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, on the other hand, believe he represents a philosophy persuasive in modern times in convincing GOP convention delegates that they should nominate the man they think has the best chance to win.

In the wings, watching developments, is Michigan Gov. George Romney. He might be shoved to the front quickly if Rockefeller and Goldwater get locked in a convention stalemate. The chance is considered remote that some real dark horse, like Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, might get the nomination.

If Goldwater is nominated at the 1964 convention the result will parallel in some respects — and differ radically in others — from the triumph of emotion that helped make Wendell L. Willkie the party's standard bearer in 1940.

Willkie defeated the party pros with a combination of a meticulously timed explosion of convention enthusiasm and a carefully arranged deluge of telegrams and telephone calls to delegates from community leaders at home.

Probably few who read the temper of the delegates at the 1960 Republican convention doubt there will be a comparable uproar for Goldwater at next year's meeting—backed by a surge of messages from the grass roots.

Fire In Excavation Kills Two Workers

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Fire erupted from a leaking gas main in an excavation Thursday and two men died in the flames.

The victims were Vernon L. Owens, 45, a Laclede Gas Co. foreman, of suburban Lemay and William F. Weaver, 56, a laborer from St. Louis.

Witnesses told police that Owens went into the six-foot hole to pull out Weaver who had been overcome by fumes, when they were trapped by the sudden fire.

The Fire Department and the gas company said they were unable to determine how the gas ignited.

Witnesses reported that flames leaped 30-feet high from the hole. Several other members of the crew grabbed fire extinguishers and tried to quell the flames.

A Fire Department spokesman said a rescue team fought the fire for nearly 30 minutes until the gas in the ruptured main was shut off. Two firemen were burned slightly.

Taxes are not to be advanced as the obligation and revenue bonds will be self-liquidating.

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—A 16-year-old confessed slayer of a mother of six will learn June 17 whether he will be tried for the crime as an adult or be handled as a juvenile.

Superior Court Judge Harold Holden then will decide on the status of Gilbert Thompson, a native of Sedalia, Mo., who is accused of the rape-murder of Mrs. Mary Ellen Stackhouse, 30, in her home at San Jose Monday night. She was the wife of a Navy Chief petty officer.

Young Thompson, who has had psychological problems since he was a third grader in Missouri, has a record of sexual attacks on women. Chief of Detectives Bart Collins says the boy forced a third grade girl to disrobe at knife point in Missouri. Collins said Thompson recently enlisted in the Army on forged papers and became involved in two attacks on women in the Monterey Bay area before his age was discovered and he was discharged.

Kennedy, Macmillan Meet Set

IN THE WEST WITH KENNEDY (AP)—President Kennedy will meet with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan for informal talks during Kennedy's late-June trip to Europe, the White House announced today.

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, said Kennedy and Macmillan would get together late on June 29, following the President's visit to Ireland. Kennedy then will continue on to Italy June 30.

Before Kennedy left the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk to witness military displays ashore, Salinger read a statement which began:

"As it is now six months since they last met and there are a number of problems they can usefully discuss, President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan have felt it would be useful to take advantage of the President's trip to Europe to have informal talks together."

Kennedy and Macmillan will confer in Sussex.

The two leaders last met in the Bahamas in mid-December. At that time, they developed a joint plan, now the subject of much inter-Allied controversy, to equip the North Atlantic Treaty Organization with a multinational nuclear force that would include Polaris missile-firing ships.

In London, British officials said Kennedy and Macmillan will discuss inter-Allied defense and the prospects of improved East-West relations.

Kennedy, according to diplomatic authorities in London, accepted Macmillan's invitation to make a brief stopover after considerable thought.

There appears a legal question whether guardsmen on training duty can be used to enforce federal court orders.

But Army sources said this is somewhat academic since "they can be federalized with a stroke of the President's pen."

The important thing is that these Alabama National Guardsmen already will have been mustered, if President Kennedy should decide to use them.

The guardsmen will report to their home stations and move by truck, mostly to Ft. McClellan, Ala., where more than 2,000 regular Army infantrymen and other soldiers have been in position since the Birmingham racial disturbances of May 12.

Some of the Alabamians will be sent to Camp Shelby in neighboring Mississippi. The Mississippi contingent of the 31st Division totals somewhat less than 4,000 men officials said.

A high administration source said Thursday the Negroes must be admitted to the university, and he indicated overwhelming federal force will be brought to bear if that becomes necessary.

The source stressed that actions taken by Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama will determine whether troops are used.

Newland Hearing Is Continued To Next Week

A hearing for Bernard E. Newland, accused on a misdemeanor charge of assaulting a police officer in the line of duty, failed to materialize in Magistrate Court Friday morning when Newland's attorney, William F. Brown, did not appear.

The charge was filed in connection with an incident in a local tavern in which Newland and Police Officers Robert Vogler and Charlie Knapp were involved.

Newland told Judge Frank Armstrong that his attorney, Brown, was unable to be present because he was in conference. Armstrong at first hesitated to grant a continuance, but then set the case over for Monday, June 10.

This date, however, was found later to conflict with another case which Brown has scheduled to represent and a definite date for the Newland hearing had not been decided at noon Friday.

Prosecuting Attorney J. R. Fritz said that the hearing would be set either on Wednesday, June 12, or Thursday, June 13.

St. Louis School Pickets Keep 500 from Classrooms

Protesting Children In Segregated School

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Pickets prevented about 500 children from going to school today by forming a human chain around 12 school buses at an assembly area in a predominantly Negro neighborhood.

Sponsored by the Committee for Parents of Transported Pupils, the picketing occurred at Dozier Elementary School and at another bus assembly area a half-block away. About 150 persons demonstrated, carrying placards and singing "Glory, Glory Hallelujah."

Active Duty For Alabama Guard Near

Just Days Before Enrollment At State University

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 4,000 Alabama National Guardsmen will go on active duty Sunday — only days before the crisis over admission of Negroes to the state university.

The men are members of the 31st Infantry Division, an Alabama-Mississippi guard outfit due to start two weeks of summer training.

Army authorities said the division's training schedule was arranged several months ago and has nothing to do with the crisis.

Nonetheless, whether by coincidence or not, thousands of Alabamians will be in federal Army uniform when three Negroes, with U.S. backing, try to enter the University of Alabama next Tuesday at its Tuscaloosa campus and on Thursday at its Huntsville branch.

There appears a legal question whether guardsmen on training duty can be used to enforce federal court orders.

One Dead In N. C. Race Riot

LEXINGTON, N. C. (AP) — Seven young Negroes were arrested in the aftermath of a race riot Thursday night that left one white man dead and a newspaper photographer wounded by gunfire.

Lexington city officials went into conference to make plans to check any similar outbreaks of violence in this racially tense furniture manufacturing town of 18,000 in Piedmont North Carolina.

Police gave this rundown of the ones arrested:

Charles Poole, 16; Robert Neal Hairston, 16; Sonny Calhoun, 17; Larry Wayne Winston, 16; William Chester Johnson, 18; Joe Poole, 19, and Roosevelt Smith, 23, all of Lexington.

Officers said that Hairston had a home made "zip gun" in his possession when arrested. Winston, officers added, had a single load shotgun with him and Johnson was carrying a 22 caliber sawed off rifle.

Violence erupted Thursday night on the heels of attempts by Negroes to gain service at segregated cafes, a theater and a bowling alley in the downtown area.

A mob of about 2,000 white men gathered on one side of a street bordering the Negro section of the city of 18,000.

About 100 Negroes assembled on the other side of the street. Police said the two groups threw rocks, bottles and sticks at each other. Some of the bottles were filled with gasoline.

A Negro girl was struck in the head by a rock. Police cars were pelted with rocks and bottles. Windows were broken in a nearby Negro church.

Then a barrage of shots came from the direction of a Negro apartment building.

Art Richardson, 25, a photographer for the High Point Enterprise, was struck in the back. He collapsed into the arms of a deputy sheriff.

Another shot struck Fred Link, 24, of Lexington. Link died en route to a Winston-Salem hospital. The bullet struck him in the head.

Richardson, father of four children with another on the way, was taken first to Lexington Hospital, then transferred to a High Point hospital for surgery. Attendants there said his condition was "stable and satisfactory."

John Baskin, a reporter for the Thomasville Morning Times, said a bullet struck the pavement in front of him as he hurried to Richardson's aid. Another shot narrowly missed Dick Swain, also a High Point news photographer.

The crowd began dispersing after the shootings, but police brought on fire hoses and scattered those remaining.

Several Negroes were treated for cuts from flying glass. A white man, James Comer, 23, was charged with striking a Negro girl in the face. There were no other arrests.

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Police have broken up a jazz combo but not because they don't dig jazz.

It's just that the instruments were stolen, all $1,000 worth.

Officer Jim Guido said six juveniles under arrest and another still sought stole the instruments from 40 different schools and had been meeting daily in a field for practice. The boys were not named.

One, Guido reported, got so good on bongos that he felt he was ready for bigger drums and the youths were getting set to steal a set when they were caught.

Dewey Backs
Rockefeller
As Nominee

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has received significant political and personal support from former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, twice a Republican candidate for president and a major figure in the nomination of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Dewey said in an interview that he considers Rockefeller the logical nominee to oppose President Kennedy in the election next year.

Dewey was supported by more than 2,700 Republicans as he welcomed Rockefeller and his wife back from their honeymoon and wished them "long lives, great happiness and success for many years."

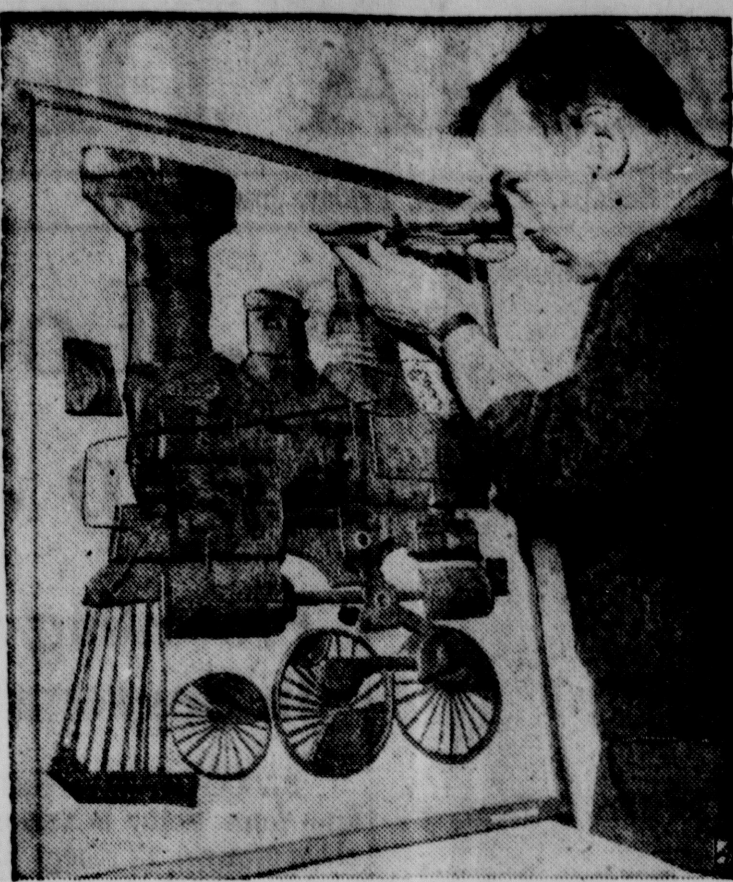

Dewey extended those greetings to the Rockefellers at the annual $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner Thursday of the state GOP.

Rockefeller is a potential candidate for the Republican nomination for president next year. There has been extensive discussion over whether his recent remarriage has diminished his prospects of winning the nomination.

His first marriage of 31 years ended in a divorce obtained by his wife 15 months ago. His new wife, the former Margaretta Murphy, divorced her husband and the father of her four children five weeks before she married Rockefeller.

"I think she's great," said Republican National Chairman William E. Miller, a New York congressman.

Miller said Thursday night he would not seek re-election as Republican national chairman when his present term expires at the GOP National Convention next summer. He also confirmed he would not seek re-election to Congress.

Custody From Mother

BOSTON (AP)—A father has been given custody of his son, 8, who lighted matches in a Boston hotel room a few hours before a pre-dawn fire spread from the room March 29, killing four persons and injuring 26 others.

The father is Frank Zach of Brooklyn, N. Y., studying to be an opera singer. The mother is Evelyn Keller Zach, 41, an actress in the road company of "Sound of Music."

The court said it had not been established, beyond a reasonable doubt, that the boy set the fatal fire.

It cleared the boy of delinquency, but issued a complaint against the mother, charging neglect of a minor child. It gave the father custody Thursday.

Competition for 25 young beauties in the "Miss Missouri" pageant at Springfield moves into the finals tonight with Sedalia's entry, Miss Judy English, 19, 1317 South Arlington, slated to be among those who will parade in bathing suits and evening dresses.

Judy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude English, was one of 13 contestants who Thursday night presented their talent routines. The other 12 entrants paraded in bathing suits and evening dresses.

Tonight the girls switch roles for another round of preliminaries and the five top scorers will vie in the finals.

"Miss Sedalia" won in the local pageant April 27 and presented as her talent a tap dance routine.

Judy is 5-foot-4, 120 pounds and will be a senior next fall at Central Missouri State College in Warrensburg.

The pageant is being staged at Springfield's Shrine Mosque. Performances tonight start at 7:30 p. m.

Patti Davis of Cabool won the talent contest and Majel Evjen of Kansas City was judged the prettiest girl in a bathing suit in the preliminary round Thursday night. Like awards will be presented in the second group when the girls switch roles tonight.

Jacquelyn Jeanne Mayer of Sandusky, Ohio, Miss America of 1963 and Sandra Kay Lyle of Springfield, Miss Missouri of 1963, also are appearing in the pageant. The opening night drew a slim crowd of 800 to Springfield's Shrine Mosque.

Patti Davis won the Thursday night talent preliminary by singing an operatic aria. She is the 20-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Davis of Cabool and it is her third try in the state contest. She is 5-foot-5 and has hazel eyes and brown hair. She attended the University of Missouri for a year and said she hopes to return to Columbia.

Priest And Strongarm
Man In One

DAVIS INLET, Labrador (AP)—A priest called on a dentist in Goose Bay last year and asked to have some fillings checked.

"Remarkably good," said the dentist. "Who filled your teeth?"

"I did myself," the priest replied.

The Rev. Francis C. Peters is no trained dentist, but he has learned elementary dentistry the hard way, just as he has learned elementary medicine, boxing, carpentry, mechanics, meteorology, engineering, plumbing and barbering.

The challenging life at Davis Inlet, where he has been the Roman Catholic missionary to a band of Nascope Indians for seven years, has taught him to be tough.

He found out soon after his arrival at this isolated post 180 miles north of Goose Bay that the band's strong men were its leaders. Often they were bullies, but in the band only strength was respected.

Father Peters is lean and rangy, weighing only 160 pounds despite his six feet, but there isn't a man in the band who can beat him. He has brought Christianity, and enforced justice via the fist.

On one expedition in the interests of seeing justice done, he flattened a parishioner with two solid punches but broke a finger. He went home, set the finger and splinted it, took a few aspirins to ease the pain, and got back to work building his church-school-presbytery-parish hall and installing a furnace he made from two oil drums.

When he was interviewed a while back, Father Peters was tenderly nursing a frozen jaw. He had just returned from a 40-mile supply trek by motorized toboggan, pushing directly into a 30-mile-an-hour wind with the temperature 40 below.

Father Peters was 30 and a top philosophy student when his order plucked him from his native Holland and sent him to Labrador. He knew neither English nor Indian dialects.

Today he is proud most of three things: the infant mortality rate is down from 80 per cent to 5; there isn't an illiterate Indian in the band, and no one lives on relief, as many did before.

"Pure charity is killing," he says. "Nothing is worse for the spirit than to be dependent. These people will be integrated into the white man's civilization in two or three generations. When they come in, I want them to come in as a proud people who stand on their own feet and have nothing to be ashamed of."

incident was released by the reporter. The name of the Sedalia victim who was not attacked but who gained her freedom from the youth, is not being used in order to save her embarrassment.

Detective Chief Collins in giving out information regarding the California crime, said the youth was alleged to have slashed his victim's throat and then ravished the body. He reported the victim was identified as Mrs. Mary Ellen Stackhouse, 30-year-old neighbor of the youth's family.

Collins reported the youth admitted killing his attractive neighbor Monday with a hammer and knife, in the downstairs portion of the Stackhouse residence while her six children were upstairs asleep.

The woman was a part-time cocktail waitress at the Moffett Naval Air Field where her husband is stationed. Her husband, James, is attending a naval school at Memphis, Tenn., on temporary assignment.

Thursday morning the Pettis County Recorder's office received a telegram request from Robert E. Nino, chief juvenile probation officer of San Jose, Calif., asking verification of Thompson's birth.

The recorder's office does not keep birth information, but a deputy, Mrs. Naomi Brown checked with Mrs. Lynn Shelby, who is state registrar here.

Mrs. Shelby's records revealed Thompson was born here Sept. 8, 1946 at Bothwell Hospital. His parents were David Bern Thompson and Emma Louise Burk Thompson. The records listed his father as being from Hattiesburg, Miss., and his mother from Sedalia. The family was residing at 1830 South Beacon at the time of the boy's birth.

Here Again--the Weeds!

They're back again—those blood-thirsty mosquitoes! Those tiny screen penetrating insects and the bigger bugs are here, too. Next come the dirty flies.

Sedalians who prefer to relax on the front porch or enjoy cookouts in the backyard are already complaining. Some who can't tolerate the bites, the itching, or fly feet on the food are retreating indoors especially if there is air conditioning.

Outdoor fans can do something about the increasing bug population by keeping premises devoid of breeding places like a discarded water-filled tomato or other can. Tight lids on garbage cans are mandatory to prevent an open invasion of germ-carrying flies.

Of particular importance now is the necessity for a community-wide weed cutting campaign. If you don't think weeds haven't a good start on the hot weather season, take a peek behind your garage or a glance down your alley. Man alive, what an invitation to mosquito-breeding.

We read an item in city council notes about a "weed jungle" owned by the Missouri National Guard, out on the north side of West Sixteenth street next to the railroad spur. Mention was made the place was infested by rats and snakes. How many other places do we have like that inside the city limits? Take a ride around town. If some of them are not weed jungles now, they soon will be if the rank growth is permitted to continue. And the way it looks there will have to be several cuttings this year judging from the rapid growth of weeds so far. They seem to be far ahead of schedule.

Already ahead of schedule are the weeds on the traffic islands on West Broadway (Highway 50) east and west of the Ohio avenue intersection, right in the middle of town. Someone ought to look after keeping these two spots beautiful instead of ugly in the summer time. Dust-covered weeds there now look horrible in a city that should have more pride in its appearance.

Sedalia should make the fight against weeds, bugs, varmints, snakes and mosquitoes a personal one—beginning now.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The congregation and friends of the East Sedalia Baptist church are happy to welcome a new pastor and his family, the Rev. Walter P. Arnold, of Parsons, Kan. He has been pastor of the church there for nearly three years. Previous to that he was pastor of the First Baptist church, Lamar, for seven years. The Rev. Mr. Arnold came to Sedalia with his parents when he was five months old. He began his education in the Southwest school at Sixteenth street and Moniteau avenue.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Sedalians were afforded a rare musical treat in the appearance at the Sedalia theatre of Mrs. Velma Lyon Weer, one of Missouri's most gifted young sopranos. No program has ever attracted larger audiences than those greeting Mrs. Weer, a former Sedalian.

Flare-up Between Two Court Justices

(Editor's Note: The Washington Merry-Go-Round today is written by Jack Anderson, Drew Pearson's associate.)

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON—There was more than just the question of Colorado river water that caused the flare-up between the two oldest justices of the Supreme Court in point of service—Hugo Black and William O. Douglas. The real reason was a woman.

These two had battled on the same side for 25 years, in agreement 99 per cent of the time. Most of the time they bucked powerful majorities, sometimes incurred vicious criticism. There have been demands for their impeachment and removal from the court, but always they stuck together.

During their 25 years they have never forgotten the ideals and aims of the man who appointed them. Other justices appointed by Roosevelt, especially Felix Frankfurter and the late Robert Jackson, strayed a long way from FDR's philosophy, but not Black and Douglas.

However, a coolness developed last fall when it became known in intimate court circles that Justice Douglas was planning another divorce.

Justice Black had taken the liberty of talking to his close friend when the latter's first divorce was in the offing. Their wives had been as intimate as they were, and Hugo told the younger justice that he was making a mistake. Not even his old friend could stop Douglas, however he married Mrs. Mercedes Davidson.

Last summer, when Justice Douglas fell in love with a co-ed at Allegheny College in Pennsylvania and moved toward a second divorce, once again he fell under the disapproving eye of his old friend. Black felt the divorce would hurt the court at a crucial time. This affected not only their personal relations but their court opinions, and reached a climax with Douglas's story dissent against Black's opinion in the Colorado River case this week.

History will record Justice Douglas as one of the great justices of this generation. His courageous opinions, his brilliant dissents will probably surpass those of Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes. And he has carried more than his share of the court's work. Yet in private life he has been restless, sometimes lonely, sometimes off on trips across the Himalayas, or the deserts of Iran, or the area around Mt. Ararat where Noah landed his ark.

Douglas is retiring from the bench in October. By that time, he and his old friend Black will probably be reconciled.

Justice John Stennis?

Legal circles have been flabbergasted at rumors that the White House is planning to appoint Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi to the Supreme Court when Justice Douglas retires.

Stennis is a Mississippi moderate and has the respect of his colleagues, but his appointment would meet with severe criticism in the north.

Stennis is a friend of Attorney General Robert Kennedy and has given him advice in the difficult Mississippi race problem. Because he is a moderate and because Gov. Ross Barnett is just the opposite, it's likely that Barnett will defeat Stennis when he runs against him for the Senate next year.

It's reported that the President and his brother are considering the appointment of a southern justice to the Supreme Court as a move to appease the south in 1964.

Military vs Democracy

The most important election to watch this month comes up in Peru on Sunday when the military junta now running that country is staging its vote for president.

The last election, held exactly one year ago, resulted in the election of Victor Haya De La Torre, an anti-Communist, pro-labor liberal who represents the landless Indians and had spent many years in exile. He was pro-United States and strongly anti-Communist. But because he believed in social reforms, the Peruvian military kicked him out.

Interesting fact is that Haya's Aprista party is about the only one campaigning in Peru today. The other candidates, ex-President Manuel Odría and Fernando Belaunde have been making few speeches. You would hardly know that an election is being held in Peru.

This has led to speculation that the Peruvian military might call off the voting at the last minute. Or, if Haya is elected again, they will probably throw him out once again.

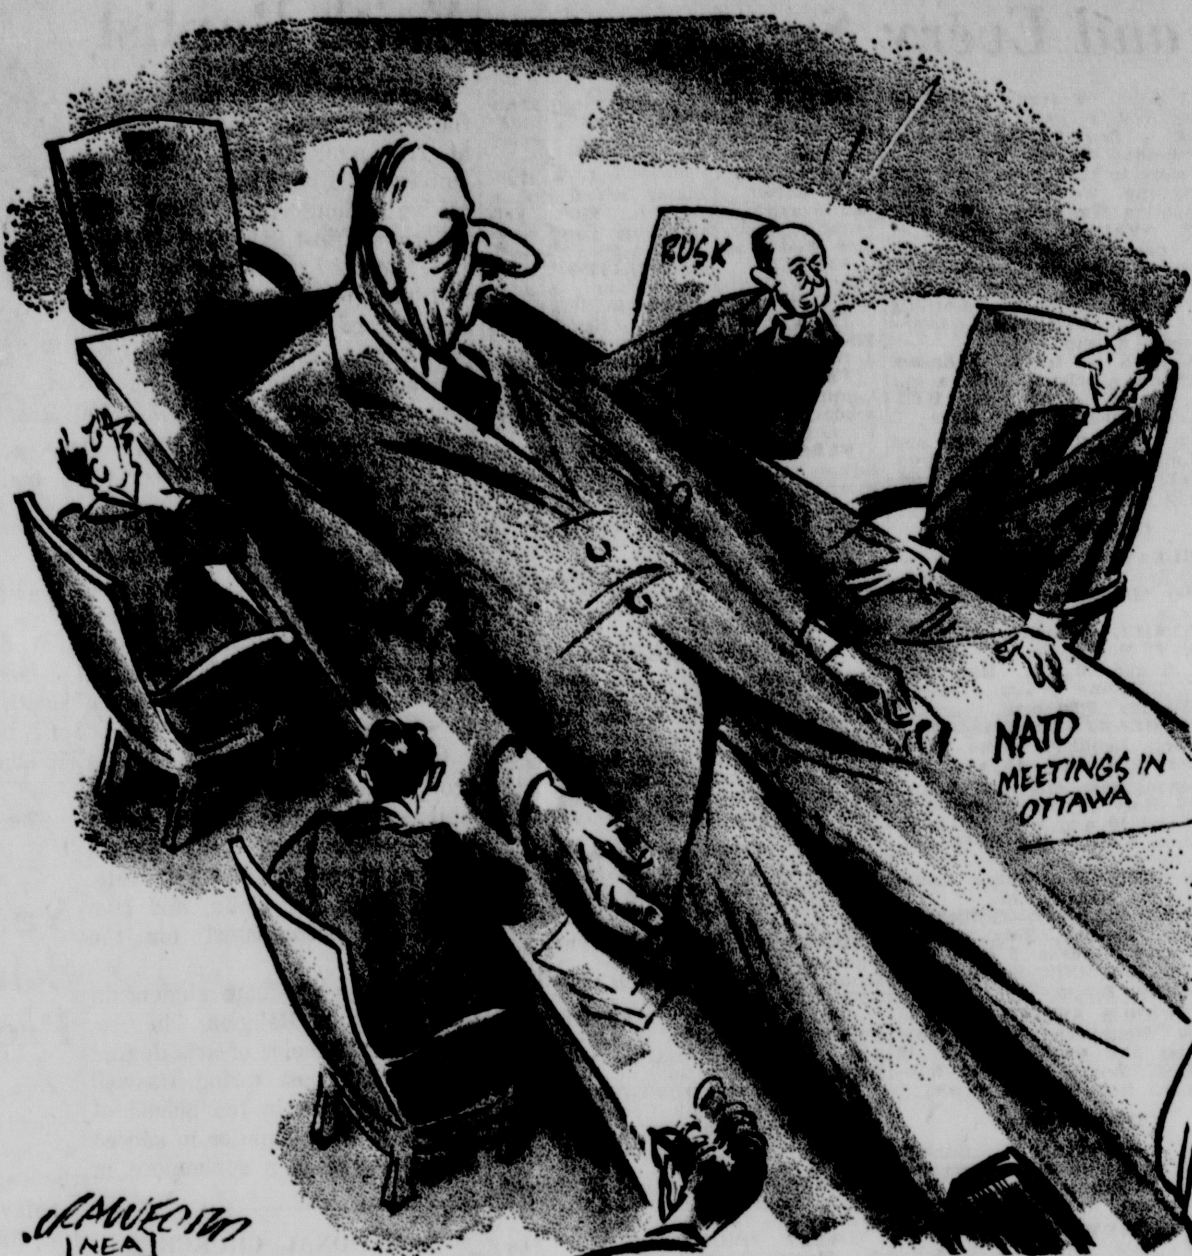

The Peruvian military has been largely equipped, supported, and trained by the U.S. military. Some have studied at West Point and Annapolis. The United States warned them in advance of last June's election that it was opposed to a military take-over. But that made no difference. The military took over anyway—fully confident that the Kennedy administration would not withhold funds.

They were right. The Kennedy administration granted recognition and proceeded with the usual aid, just as it did with the recognition of the military junta in Argentina, and later the military take-over in Guatemala.

The State Department even sent into exile the forthright U.S. Ambassador James Loeb, who had opposed the Peruvian military. Ambassador Loeb, after ten months of political exile, has now been assigned to be ambassador to Guinea, one of the toughest ambassadorial posts in Africa.

Note—Latin Americans read the papers. U.S. support for military regimes has probably hurt the United States more in democratic Latin countries than all our support for the Alliance for Progress.

Why Didn't It Happen Sooner?

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The great flurry now by the government, churchmen, mayors, businessmen and others to speed up desegregation raises an embarrassing question for white people, North and South. Why didn't it happen sooner?

The government—and some churchmen, mayors, businessmen and others—had been moving, but at a snail's pace, to end racial discrimination. But Negroes had to force on them the realization they hadn't done enough fast enough.

Negroes are finally fed up waiting for the equal treatment to which they are justly entitled as citizens under the 14th Amendment but for which they have been waiting almost 100 years since the amendment was adopted.

They know at last how much strength they have if they act together. Now they are using direct action in demonstrations, sit-ins, picketing, and boycotts. So far their action has been mostly nonviolent. It may not remain so.

And white people realize it. They can't claim to be suddenly moved by the injustice of segregation. This has been evident enough for years. They are fearful that bloody riots may come if Negroes continue to be frustrated in their constitutional demands.

This was made plain Thursday by a source in close touch with Kennedy administration planning.

He said the administration hopes for a vast grassroots movement of racial reconciliation to head off a possible wave of race riots North and South this summer.

This also explains why the administration now is going to push a number of civil rights bills at Congress next week and make a fight which it could have made before what happened in Birmingham shook white people awake.

There Negroes demonstrated peacefully even though more than 2,000 of them were arrested. But then, when Negro dwellings were bombed, a riot began, giving a foretaste of what could happen in many places.

White communities have sacrificed a lot of Negro good will by their delay in giving Negroes the equal treatment they're entitled to by law. Negroes know that what they get they have to fight for every step of the way.

It wasn't until nearly the middle of the 20th Century—when the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People took a series of test cases to the Supreme Court—that one form of segregation after another was declared illegal.

Nevertheless the Supreme Court carefully avoided saying the principle of segregation itself was unconstitutional. That would have meant saying that the 1896 decision that segregation was constitutional was wrong. The court finally said so in 1954.

By working together—but not in a solid way and under various leaderships—Negroes over the years since 1954 began, with help of the courts and the federal government, to break down segregation bit by bit.

In places like Alabama and Mississippi it is still intense if no longer total.

As their confidence increased Negroes began to depend on individual test cases in the courts and took to direct action, like freedom rides and all that followed. But the segregation wall is still enormous.

So far the Negroes have been led by moderates. If the non-violent action they advocate fails, the moderate view will be discredited as Negro impatience increases.

The Well Child

Simple Vigilance Conquers Tragic Children's Disease

By Wayne G. Brandstad, M.D.

The relatively new term, phenylketonuria, describes a condition that used to be lumped together with other forms of mental retardation for which no cause was known. This disease is a perfect example of the ability of medical scientists, once the cause of a disease is known, to come up with a cure.

In babies with this hereditary disease one of the basic amino acids (builders of body protein) known as phenylalanine is not changed to tyrosine, another amino acid, as should occur in the normal course of metabolism. For this reason the concentration of phenylalanine builds up in the blood. When it reaches an abnormal level it is excreted in the urine.

Tests of the blood or urine will reveal this defect even in the first week of life. This is a blessing because the sooner the disease is discovered and treatment started, the better the results. All that is required is strict observance of a diet that is practically free of phenylalanine. This consists chiefly of vegetables and fruit and a specially prepared commercially available protein supplement. No milk, meat or eggs are allowed.

Without these dietary restrictions the mental retardation in these children is severe, but with the recommended treatment the mental development is normal. In order to be effective, the treatment must be started before the child is 3 years old and preferably in infancy.

Unlike diabetes in which treatment must be continued throughout life, the treatment for phenylketonuria must be followed only until the child reaches the age of 5 or 6. This apparently permits the delayed development of normal metabolic processes and there is no further danger of mental retardation. Tests for phenylalanine in a baby's blood are made in most hospitals before the mother and baby are discharged.

Many people wonder how the disease can be called hereditary when neither parent has it. This is because it is carried as a recessive gene or hereditary determinant and will not show up in the offspring unless both parents carry the gene, and even then the gene is not present in all of their sperm and ova.

Q—My baby girl is just a week old and is as yellow as she can be. The doctor says she has jaundice. I never heard of a child having it so young. Will she have any bad effects from it?

A—About 60 per cent of all newborn babies have some degree of jaundice. It is deeper in some than in others. The jaundice is due to the fact that the liver has not yet developed to the point where it can remove the bile pigment in the child's blood. This type of jaundice appears on the second or third day of life and gradually fades so that when the child is 2 weeks old there is no trace of jaundice. If the yellow discoloration grows deeper or if it doesn't disappear by the end of the second week you should report it to your doctor. If the jaundice is present at birth, this may indicate Rh incompatibility or some other serious condition, but the ordinary jaundice of the newborn is of no importance.

Dialogue from Washington

By Vera Clay

All a president of the United States has to do is sneeze and it becomes worthy of world-wide comment. One hour out of office, he could hack his lungs out and it only would be politically recorded.

Ex-presidents Hoover, Truman and Eisenhower can testify to the difference between being "in" and "out;" they are, of course, beloved by their party, great for fund-raising dinners and political drum-beating, but, usually not included in the hard search for a winning candidate. They give "elder statesman" advice and are used for the political sheen which their name or presence inspires.

If a man only has been a presidential candidate and never made it to the White House, he has an even rougher road trying to be a political kingmaker. Governor Tom Dewey of New York, a twice defeated presidential candidate made it by swinging his weight for President Eisenhower, proving that a "loser" is not a completely lost cause to his party.

Yet, Richard Nixon, the Republican candidate who polled 34 million votes in the presidential election of 1960 is discussed in some quarters in Washington as though he were a wraith from hell. Some of his former Republican colleagues on Capitol Hill look far off to the horizon when they are asked to discuss him and, as rapidly as possible, switch the conversation to the "live" candidates: the ones who currently are grabbing headlines even if they have no sure votes or commitments at the Republican convention. The same names keep getting a friendly going over: Governor Romney of Michigan ("keep your eye on him," they say, "he is a factor... a big potential..."). This correspondent heard him, shook hands with him and asked him if he would promise he was not a candidate. "I promise," he said, as his voice trembled, clasping his hand firmly and looking me squarely in the eye. Whatever the promise was, to run or not to run, he was sincere about it in a "sincere tie," bright ebullient manner. He is graying at the temples, clean-featured, immaculately groomed and spills political jargon with glib dexterity. He knows how to raise his hand with an "I'm one of you" gesture. Romney is such a bright and shining Republican knight, that even he is convinced of his authority to garner convention votes.

Senator Barry Goldwater's releases and rallies pile up by the pound and money is being spent like water to bring Goldwater to the folks. It is all red, white and blue and gold dust for the man from Arizona. Governor Rockefeller is undergoing an image-change. The politicians are trying now to turn his bride into a vote-getting asset. "A Republican Jackie Kennedy," they crow and are convincing one another most successfully that the second marriage was the best thing that ever happened to their boy, "Rocky."

Governor Scranton of Pennsylvania whose name has been bandied about somewhat only gets a "clouded" crystal ball rating from his fellow Republicans. "... coal dust instead of gold dust..." one politician remarked unsympathetically.

Hardly anybody has anything flattering to say about Dick Nixon which is not much different than it ever has been. Nixon was never a great favorite with the Republican party. He was a loner when he was riding high and he certainly is one now. "He was supposed to be a political genius... but in the clutch, he did not have it," was one comment which, when analyzed is not the pitch, either.

It always is easy to call the shots two years later. Even Adlai Stevenson, a two-time Democratic presidential loser, knows all about that aspect of reaching the finish line in second place. He sits up in the United Nations winning friends internationally but is not exactly involved intimately in the day-to-day politics of the Democratic party.

Are people clamoring to hear what Richard Nixon has to say prior to the 1964 presidential race? There is a steady demand for his speechmaking services; but he is not being swamped by requests to speak partly because he has indicated he wants to establish himself firmly with the New York law firm, Mudge, Stern, Baldwin and Todd, 20 Broad Street, New York City and partly because he is not wanted.

Meantime, he has said he is not running for President (he has taken himself out of the running by leaving California) and so do the Republicans in Washington who claim loudly and clearly that Nixon never was their choice. They shudder at the thought of all that TV debate business, it gives them a trauma. Besides, Nixon has made it abundantly clear that he, for now, has given up the White House. He moved from his home state, California, to the relief of the Republicans out there who have been stifled for ten years by big name politicians (Warren, Nixon, Knight and Knowland), leaving no room at the top for any newcomers.

One of Nixon's erstwhile drum-beaters claims that Nixon's "Political soul has been seared," and the best he can do immediately is try for kingmaking with the candidate of his choice. The point is nobody knows, yet, which candidate he wants to wave his wand over. If proximity has anything to do with it, his physical presence in the same apartment building as Governor Rockefeller, might come in handy. Nixon lets it be known he wants to give philosophical leadership to the Republican Party but none of the candidates have indicated that they necessarily want his magic stick waving over their heads.

DEAR POLLY—A little de-natured alcohol on a brush removes tobacco stains from brass or copper ash trays.

Sprinkle dry baking soda in scorched pans or pots and allow it to stand for a while. They can be readily and quickly cleaned. POLLY'S POINTERS is the first thing I look for in the paper. I do enjoy them so much. I think mine are pretty good, too, and hope you do.—Mrs. E. G.

GIRLS—I know you all join me in thanking Mrs. E. G. for those kind words and we think her hints are pretty good, too.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—When you dry newly washed pants on pants stretchers, it's a nuisance to tie the stretchers to the clothesline. I hook a shower curtain hook onto each leg of the stretcher and just snap it to the line. This is quick and easy.—E. M. R.

DEAR POLLY—Among the many hints given for cleaning a scorched iron, we overlooked the most obvious and the best. Just plain silver polish. Quick as a wink, too.—MRS. A. J. R.

GIRLS—Try it and you will agree.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—Mark a large manila envelope "Family News." When you come across an item in the local paper that is of interest to an absent member of the family, clip it and put in the envelope after making a notation of the date of publication on the clipping.

When you think of something you want to tell a friend or relative the next time you write, jot it down on a scrap of paper, together with the person's name and put it in the envelope.

When you sit down to write letters, a glance at the contents of the envelope will refresh your memory and you will be able to share many anecdotes and news items that might otherwise be forgotten.

I keep a can of talcum powder in the kitchen beside my rubber gloves. A dash of powder in each glove before putting them on absorbs the perspiration and makes them easier to remove when the dishes or any other wet task is finished.—MARJORIE

GIRLS—Try this with unlined kid or leather gloves too. They will go on much easier.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—With house cleaning now under way, I purchased a new string mop and here is what my husband taught me: Tie a knot at the end of each string of your new mop before using it. The knots keep the mop from tangling and make it last much longer.—MRS. B. S.

GIRLS—More help from one of our clever gentlemen friends even though it did come by way of his wife.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—Here is a hint for those who like to take flowers to the cemetery. I cut the lower cross wire of a coat hanger, straighten the end curves and then push the two long ends into the ground. Fasten the hook part on the top of the vase or pot. This holds them steady and I have never had a bouquet blow over.—MRS. L. D.

Fellowship Dinner Set At Wesley

Sunday evening at 5:30 o'clock the Wesley Methodist Church will hold a fellowship supper in honor of members that have joined Wesley Church since last October. The new members will be presented informally and time will be given for others of the congregation to meet and talk with them. A brief program will be presented, giving the history of the church and presenting the current church staff and organizational leaders.

The minister has chosen for his second sermon in the series on "Stories of Jesus" the story of the planting of the grain, and its title is "God's Complex Simplicity." This sermon will be presented at both services, nine and eleven o'clock.

The Chancel Choir of the Wesley Methodist Church will sing Monday evening at the annual Missouri West Conference being held in Fayette at Central College. Under the leadership of Bishop Eugene M. Frank, extensive new programs will be presented and on Friday of this week, every Methodist minister in this half of the state will receive his pastoral appointment for a new year.

Several outstanding programs will be presented and accepted or rejected by the vote of the conference, made up of an equal number of clergy and laymen. The following are a few of these programs: A Christian family life mission to be held throughout the conference during the last of October of this year. If adopted, this will involve the whole church. The adoption of a new higher education program which will provide, among other things, for a capital funds drive to furnish new buildings and leadership in the Wesley Foundations of the state. This is the Methodist student work on state and independent college campuses. A program for the expansion to a four year school of the Lydia Patterson Institute at El Paso, Tex. This is a school to provide an education for Mexican students that come across the border. The Wesley Church has already gone on record favoring the campaign to raise funds to make this possible. The conference will be voting on a program of hospitalization insurance for ministers, providing a group plan for the whole conference.

The annual conference is important this year as delegates are to be elected to the quadrennial held General Conference and Jurisdictional Conference. There are an equal number of laymen and ministers elected to each of these conferences, the laymen and ministers electing their own delegates. Each person elected must receive a majority vote of those voting. Any person may attend this annual conference held at Fayette this Monday evening through Friday noon. Each minister must attend and there should be a layman from each Methodist Church in the conference.

Activities at Wesley Church are as follows: The Primary Choir directed by Mrs. Norris Spencer will rehearse Monday at 4 p.m.; Circle 6 will meet Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. with Mrs. W. J. Nave, 1625 West 16th; the Friendship Class will meet Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the church. The Junior Choir will meet at 4 o'clock and the Chancel Choir at 7 o'clock Thursday. ## Hints for Happy Holidays (3) Piloting the Freeways

Freeways and turnpikes are still an unfamiliar experience for many motorists. They're marvelously convenient and are safer than other roads if driven properly. But their very differences from regular roads—no stops or crossings, gentle grades—give the new roads a special hazard. Some call it "highway hypnosis." It's sheer boredom and fatigue, caused by monotonously driving straight ahead at a constant speed for hours on end. Some recommend tricks, like blasting the radio, sticking your head into the wind, varying speeds. But there is only one really safe rule: STOP driving at the first sign of drowsiness. And whether sleepy or not, pull into service plazas, get out and stretch occasionally.

CHECKLIST

- ✓ 1. Have car serviced before hitting freeway or turnpike.
- ✓ 2. Speed up in entrance lane. Once on freeway, keep up with the stream of traffic.
- ✓ 3. Take all the room you need to pass. Signal intention to pass and return to righthand lane.
- ✓ 4. Never stop on freeway. In emergency, pull well onto shoulder. Never back up.
- ✓ 5. Stay two (TWO, not one) car lengths behind the car ahead for every 10 m.p.h. of speed.
- ✓ 6. STOP driving, pull off and rest if you become tired or sleepy.

Cards in Share Of League Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A player exchange between the St. Louis Cardinals and the Chicago Cubs last fall appears to have helped put both teams in a three-way tie for first place in the National League.

The Redbirds and the Cubs joined San Francisco in the three-way tie.

It was George Altman, a former Cub, who hit an eighth inning pinch hit double to give the Cardinals a 5-4 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Thursday night.

In Chicago, former Cardinal Lindy McDaniel, in relief of Larry Jackson, both of whom were involved in a trade for Altman, pitched and hit a game winning home run, to lead the Cubs to a 3-2 extra inning victory over San Francisco.

All three teams have identical 31-23 records.

Good relief pitching by Ray Saleck and Bobby Shantz saved the game for starter Bob Gibson, who picked up the win, his fourth against three losses.

Gibson helped his own cause by starting a rally in the third to chase Philly starter Chris Short. Gibson got on first on an error by Tony Taylor. Curt Flood singled and Dick Groat, Bill White and Charley James followed with extra base blows.

The Cardinals are in New York tonight to face the Mets. Ray pitch for the White Sox against the Athletics' Dave Theis (0-1).

Luis, Emile Both Boast Of Knockout

NEW YORK (AP)—Both welterweight champion Luis Rodriguez and Emile Griffith talk boldly of ending their bitter rivalry Saturday night by a knockout in their return title fight.

But if that happens it will be a bigger surprise than the New York Mets' giving Roger Craig a 10 run lead to play with.

The records show that no one has been able to stop either the champion from Cuba and Miami or the ex-champ from the Virgin Islands and New York.

They also will be using the 8-ounce gloves that are mandatory under the New York Athletic Commission's new safety rules instead of the 6-ouncers previously worn for title fights. Most boxers say the lighter mitts, with their thinner padding, make punches more powerful.

"I'm going to knock him out," said the 25-year-old Cuban exile during one of his brisk workouts.

"That's a big laugh," said the 24-year-old Griffith when told of Luis' prediction. "I just hope he tries for one. Then, maybe he'll stop running. He runs like a horse but I'm going to ride him this time. I'm going to get him and knock him out."

Griffith, who rates as the better puncher of the two, is a 13-10 favorite to win the 15-rounder at Madison Square Garden and become the first to hold the 147-pound division crown three times. And he's only a baby compared to Sugar Ray Robinson who had five reigns as middleweight king.

Bitterness has developed between the welters because of the close and controversial decisions in their two previous clashes. Griffith was awarded a split verdict in their first meeting, a 10-rounder before either was champion at the Garden, Dec. 17, 1960. Rodriguez lifted the title from Griffith on a close but unanimous decision at Los Angeles last March 21. A majority of boxing writers at ringside thought Griffith had the edge in the 15-rounder.

Griffith, an aggressive, boxer-puncher who hits hard to the body has a 35-4 record, including 13 knockouts. Rodriguez is a counter-puncher who usually prefers that his opponents come to him. He has nimble feet, fast hands and a granite jaw. His record is 50-2, including 21 knockouts.

The 15-rounder will be telecast nationally from Madison Square Garden. Starting time is 9 p.m. EST.

3-Way Tie For Top

Trade Players Trigger Win That Puts Cubs Into First

By BOB GREEN

The Chicago Cubs, triggered by what head coach Bob Kennedy called "the trade of the year," own a share of the National League lead for the first time in more than five years.

They reached their lofty status Thursday when Larry Jackson and Lindy McDaniel, acquired in an off-season trade with St. Louis, pitched them past San Francisco 3-2 and into a three-way tie for first with the Giants and Cardinals.

It was the first time the lowly Cubbies had been on the top rung since May 7, 1958. And, even though they haven't finished in the first division in 17 years, they're making a determined grab for all the marbles this season.

Their victory over the Giants was their 11th in 13 games and seventh in 10 starts against San Francisco this year. McDaniel nailed it down with a sparkling relief performance and a 10th inning home run.

Kennedy put the "trade of the year" tag on the swap that brought McDaniel and Jackson to Chicago and sent George Altman and Don Cardwell to St. Louis. The Cardinals probably would agree.

It was Altman's pinch-hit double that drove in the winning run in St. Louis' 5-4 triumph over Philadelphia and lifted the Cards into a share of the top spot.

In the only other activity, Cincinnati swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh 7-5 and 10-5 on the bombing of Frank Robinson and Gordy Coleman.

Baltimore reclaimed first place in the American League, beating New York 4-2. The Yankees' starting pitcher, Jim Bouton, suffered a 12-stitch cut on his right jaw when he was struck in the face by a line drive off the bat.

Davies Holding Quarter-Final Lead in Tourney

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—Dick Davies, the champion they said was lucky to win last year, led the way today into the quarter-finals of the British Amateur Golf Championship.

The 32-year-old Pasadena, Calif. broker won two matches Thursday, the first on the 19th hole and the second on the 8th to prove that if his swing was not the best his lion-like heart was in the right place.

The fourth and fifth rounds Thursday exacted a terrific toll, mostly among the British stars. Five Walker Cup players fell by the wayside, Joe Carr of Ireland, Michael Bonallack and Martin Christmas of England, Ronnie Shade and Stuart Murray of Scotland.

The only surviving British Walker cupper, Michael Lunt of England, was confronted by Davies in the quarter-finals.

Dick Sikes, Springdale, Ark., was pitted against Dr. Ed Updegraff of Tucson, Ariz., and Dr. Ron Lucetti, a dark horse from San Francisco, was up against 20-year-old Peter Green of England in other quarter-finals.

of Jackie Brandt. Washington edged Boston 2-1 in the only other game scheduled.

Jackson, who has a 7-5 record and a sparkling 2.06 earned run average, was lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth when the Cubs tied it 2-2 on Billy Williams two-run homer.

Barney Schultz got into trouble in the top of the ninth and McDaniel came in with the bases loaded and one out. He promptly picked Willie Mays off second base and then struck out Ed Bauta.

He broke up the game with his homer in the bottom of the 10th, winning his second game in as many days. McDaniel is now 3-1 for the season, with a 1.73 earned run average. He has appeared in relief 19 times and has finished 15 games.

Altman's pinch double scored Ken Boyer in the eighth with what proved to be the winning run for the Cards. Bobby Shantz fought off a Phil rally in the sixth and Ed Bauta and Ray Sadecki worked out of another jam in the eighth.

Robinson hit two homers for the second night in succession, powering the Reds to their first game victory. Jerry Lynch, Smokey Burgess and Bill Mazeroski connected for Pittsburgh. Coleman took over for the Reds in the nightcap, driving in five runs with a bases-loaded triple, a single a bases-loaded walk.

Davies Leads U.S. Golfers In Scotland

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—Defending champion Dick Davies of Pasadena, Calif., twice fought back from the brink of defeat Thursday and led a quartet of Americans into the quarter-finals of the British Amateur Golf Championship.

Other U.S. winners in a day of double eliminations were two of Davies' Walker Cup teammates, Dr. Ed Updegraff of Tucson, Ariz., and Dick Sikes of Springdale, Ark., plus an outsider, Dr. Ron Lucetti of San Francisco, an Army dental corps officer stationed in Germany.

Two other Americans—Chris Blocker, 23-year-old soldier stationed in Italy, and Hugh O'Donnell, Hollywood restaurateur—bowed out in the morning's fourth round.

The quarter-finals and semifinals will be played Friday over 18 holes, with the 36-hole title round scheduled Saturday over St. Andrews' famed Old Course.

Updegraff, a 41-year-old urologist, and Sikes, 23-year-old U.S. Public Links champion, clash in an all-American quarter-final. Davies meets Michael Lunt, British Walker Cupper who beat Blocker up in the morning round while Dr. Lucetti faces Peter Green of England.

Wagering is that the United States will take this 78-year-old title. One of the big favorites, Joe Carr of Ireland, was beaten in the fifth round.

Davies had to go 19 holes in the fourth round to beat John Wilson of Scotland, 1 up, and then had to win five of the last nine holes for a 1 up triumph over John Beharrell, 25-year-old Briton who won the championship as an 18-year-old in 1956. In the latter match, the champion was four down through No. 11 and three down through the 13th.

Updegraff, the tournament surprise, beat Geoffrey Dixon of England, 2 and 1, and then scored a 3 and 2 triumph over Ronnie Shade, Scottish Walker Cup ace who had been established as one of the prime tournament favorites.

Sikes beat Dr. Hugh Mac Anespie of Scotland, 4 and 3, and Fraser Urquhart of England, 2 and 1. Lucetti won over Brian Anderson of Scotland, 3 and 2, and Martin Christmas, British Walker Cup player, 3 and 2.

Jaycees, Lions Squeak Out Narrow Little League Wins

Two close games marked play in the Little League majors Thursday night.

In the opener, Jaycees slipped past Moose 3-2, preserving the Jaycees undefeated seat in the standings, and leaving Moose's record 0-2 for the season. Jim Burlingame was the winning pitcher, with Kenzie Page taking the loss.

Lions evened up their season record 1-1 with their win over Optimist 6-5 in the second game at Little League stadium in Liberty Park. Larry Thomas chalked up the win, with Jim Lewis doing mound duty for Optimist until he was replaced in the sixth with a tie score on the board. Tim Hogan, who pitched the balance of the game for Optimist was marked down for the loss.

"A" team action at Centennial Park saw Optimist A's charge past Lions 10-3, with Bob Bechtel taking the laurels for mound duty. Danny Wilson was the losing pitcher for Lions. Lions season record is now no wins with two losses.

In the second game of "A" league play, it was Jaycees 9, Moose 8, in a game described as close all the way. Bill Jolly was the winner on the mound for Jaycees. Dennis Hagan was the losing pitcher.

The "C" team game at Housel Park was marked by a hard luck pitching story. Charles Staley, pitcher for Rotary C's, had 14 strikeouts, gave 7 walks, and allowed 2 hits, but lost the game to Lions 7-5. Andy Kindle was the winning pitcher for Lions. Ricky McMullen stroked two homers in that game.

A score of 32-4 resulted in the "B" game between Lions and Rotary, with Lions on the long end of the score. Robbie Davis was the winning pitcher with Bill Ballance also doing pitching duty for Lions. Kenny Schanuth was credited with the loss for Rotary, with George Hughes doing relief pitching duty for Rotary.

Houk Says Yanks Can Win Without Mickey Mantle

NEW YORK (AP)—"We can win the pennant without Mickey Mantle."

Yankee Manager Ralph Houk fired this challenge at the rest of the American League today after he had learned that the broken bone in the left foot suffered by Mantle Wednesday night in Baltimore will keep the Yankees' $100,000 centerfielder out of action for at least five weeks.

"I can't see why we shouldn't be able to beat those clubs without him," Houk said. "We all know what he means to the club but I don't think the players will lose spirit. As a matter of fact, this might raise the club up. We have been through this before and know we have to battle harder."

Houk made his remarks over the telephone from Baltimore. He reiterated his opinion Thursday night in the Maryland city after the Yankees lost 4-2 to the Orioles for their fourth defeat in five games and fell out of first place.

Cubs Hurtled Into First By McDaniel

CHICAGO (AP)—The sizzling Chicago Cubs, buried in the National League's second division for the past 16 seasons, have hurdled into a first-place tie on the batting prowess of a 1,000 hitter—relief pitcher Lindy McDaniel.

McDaniel's second home run of his career in the 10th inning Thursday handed the Cubs a 3-2 triumph over front-running San Francisco for a sweep of a four-game series and the Cubs' 11th triumph in 13 games. It's the first time in six seasons the Cubs have flirted with first place at any stage of the race.

McDaniel's game-deciding blow off reliever Billy Pierce was his first hit as a Cub and was no less artistic than his superb relief job in the top of the 10th when he handcuffed the Giants with the bases loaded and only one out.

The 11,240 fans Thursday rocked Wrigley Field when McDaniel, former ace fireman for the St. Louis Cardinals, first saved the day in the top of the 10th by picking Willie Mays off second and striking out Ed Bailey, and then broke a 2-2 tie by poking his only homer since a 1957 clout off Brooklyn's Roger Craig.

McDaniel, 28, a 6-foot-3 right-hander from Florissant, Mo., doesn't even own a bat of his own. He borrowed third baseman Ron Santo's club for his big smash.

"I don't come up to bat too often, you know," grinned Lindy. "I was so busy out there in the top of the tenth, I didn't realize I was first up when we came to bat," continued McDaniel. "I didn't know Billy Pierce had come in for starter Juan Marichal until I stepped up to the plate. When that 2-2 pitch came in waist high, I just swung and away it went."

Too Much, Too Little

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Thousands of Africans in this country are suffering from malnutrition while many whites are eating themselves to death.

The division, he adds, corresponds roughly to the facts of segregated life in South Africa—the richest people are white and the poorest black.

Dr. F. W. Quass, director of the National Nutrition Research Institute, says an excessive intake of foods rich in fats and proteins causes an unusually high incidence of arteriosclerosis. The South African incidence among whites is possibly one of the highest in the world.

Overloading the body with rich diets most probably leads to heart ailments such as coronary thrombosis, Dr. Quass' report adds, although absolute proof of this is still lacking.

Dr. Quass says the average white South African eats about half a ton of food per year. One third is grain. The rest consists of 100 pounds each of sugar, fruit, vegetables and meat. The average daily calorie intake is 2,766.

But relatively few black Africans are likely to die of anything related to too much food. A recent investigation by one of the country's leading churches concluded that "hundreds of thousands" of Africans, mostly mothers and children, could eat only three times a week in the drought-stricken part of the country. Their meals consisted of corn porridge without meat or vegetables.

Development Plan For Africa To Be Studied By Portugal

LISBON, Portugal (AP)—Portugal is ready to meet representatives of African governments, both here and in Africa "to examine with them a dynamic plan of development in Africa." Foreign Minister Alberto Franco Nogueira told a news conference Thursday.

This was the first public indication that the Salazar government was prepared to meet African leaders who in their recent Addis Ababa conference called for a fight against all colonialism in Africa.

Portuguese officials have up to now rejected as interference in Portugal's internal affairs efforts by other nations to raise questions on the Portuguese administration of Angola, Mozambique, and other areas in Africa.

One Soldier Killed Another Hurt In Road Grader Crash

CAMP MCCOY, Wis. (AP)—One soldier from Missouri was decapitated and another was seriously hurt Thursday when a road grader overturned on a sharp curve at the bottom of a hill at Camp McCoy.

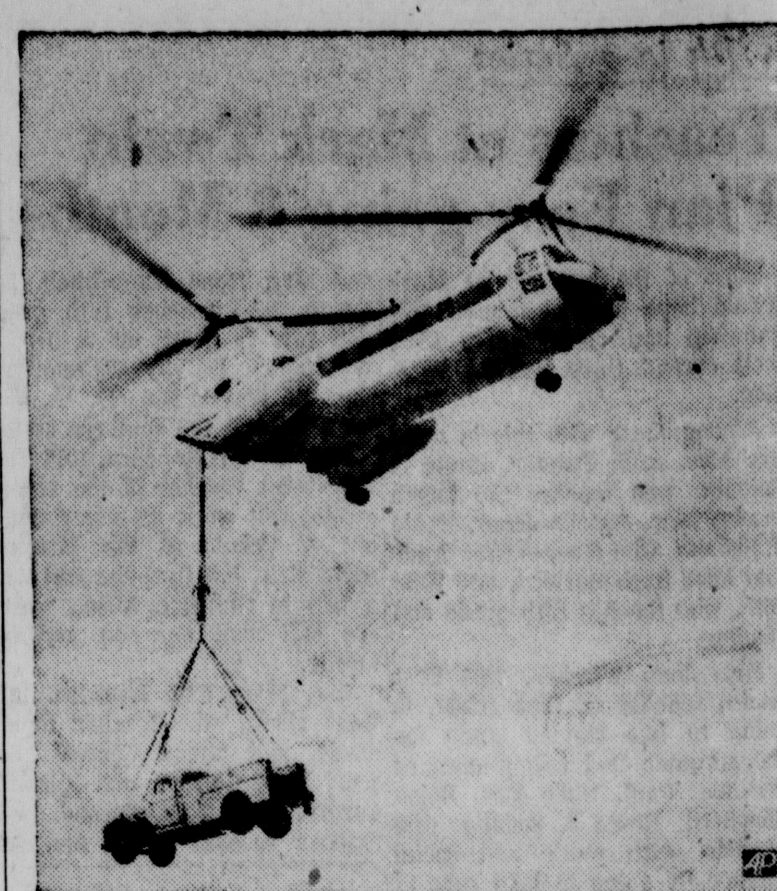

Spec. 4 Raymond L. Martin Jr., 20, of Affton, a St. Louis suburb, was killed. PFC Elmer J. Frenow of St. Louis was taken to the Navy Hospital at Great Lakes, Ill. with a shattered left leg and possible internal injuries.

Both men were stationed at Ft. Leonard Wood in Missouri and were part of an advance detachment sent to Camp McCoy to open it for the summer. They were working on a construction project.

Christmas In June

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP)—"It'll be like Christmas when daddy comes home," Elizabeth said when saying over and over in the way of children.

So it was Christmas in June today for Elizabeth Dennehy, a 3-year-old blonde who has been awaiting the return of her father, Brian, from 14 months of service with the U.S. Marine Corps in Southeast Asia. She got her gaily-decorated Christmas tree and some presents.

Danger Is Appraised

Religious Conflicts Play Role In Viet Nam Strife

EDITOR'S NOTE — Religious conflict is complicating the problems of South Viet Nam. Some consider the Buddhist uprising there a more serious challenge to the pro-Western government of President Ngo Dinh Diem than the jungle warfare waged by Communist guerrillas. Here a skilled observer of Southeast Asia gives his appraisal of the new danger.

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Yellow-robed Buddhist monks, pledged to nonviolence, present one of the most serious threats which President Ngo Dinh Diem's pro-Western government has faced in its eight stormy years.

Diem's officials are worried that the unarmed demonstrators may be more than a match for their large, American-advised army, battle-tested though it is in jungle fighting against Communist guerrillas.

Until now, the Viet Cong Communist guerrillas—led and armed from neighboring North Viet Nam—have been the only force Diem has been unable to overcome.

But the religious revolt is ominous in a country where 80 per cent of the population is Buddhist, ruled by an authoritarian Roman Catholic president.

To meet it: Security troops are on the move throughout the country. Secret police are everywhere. The presidential palace in Saigon and neighboring streets have been converted into a fortress.

Police are circulating questionnaires to all families, requiring declarations of any religious or political affiliations.

Public assemblies have been banned and nothing may be published without review by government officials.

Hundreds of persons, including Buddhist monks caught distributing propaganda, have been arrested.

Diem evidently has decided to pursue the same tough line that has checked most opposition movements. Heretofore all non-Communist opposition to the government has been split into factions, disorganized and ineffective.

In 1960, rebel army units seized Saigon but collapsed within a few days for lack of organization.

But there are strong indications many different political factions see in the Buddhist movement a potential united front against the government. The Viet Cong itself has adapted its propaganda against the government to the theme of religious oppression.

A movement which one month ago was a scattering of Buddhist demonstrators has become a powerful political factor.

It began May 8, observed internationally as Buddha's birthday. The government had forbidden the public display of any flags other than the national flag, and Buddhist leaders in the central Vietnamese city of Hue objected. A demonstration followed, and eight persons were killed when government "armored cars" moved in.

Hue is in a region controlled politically and economically by President Diem's brothers, Ngo Dinh Canh and Archbishop Ngo Dinh Thuc.

Because the president, his family and many of his top lieutenants are Roman Catholic, the Buddhist movement has taken on some of the trappings of a holy war.

But President Diem has said his government has strictly prohibited religious discrimination.

Leading Catholic priests say the matter is political and not religious. Even the Buddhist leaders insist they have no quarrel with the Catholic Church.

The chief priests of the Buddhist movement are fully aware of the political aspects of their movement. Many are urbane, educated men. Some have studied political science in the United States. Some are patriarchs with great authority in their parishes:

In one month, they have welded their movement into something almost resembling a political party. Committees have been formed for negotiation, propaganda, planning and communicating in Viet Nam and abroad.

Rooms in pagodas have become command posts, where young monks rush messages, mimeograph machines grind out communiques, and the sounds of telephones and typewriters blend with the boom of temple bells.

Hunger strikes and demonstrations are staged with military precision.

The leading monks say they will be satisfied if the government grants permission to fly the Buddhist flag, equal legal standing with the Catholic Church, an end to "arresting and terrorizing of the faithful," freedom for monks to preach, and indemnities for the persons killed or wounded in the May 8 incident.

But the real aims of the movement seem to go far beyond these.

"We have been in a fight for freedom of religion and social justice in South Viet Nam," one monk said.

"We will fight until we win—not violently, of course."

None of the monks has said whether they are trying to overthrow the government. All say they wish to cooperate with the government "if the government makes this possible."

American diplomats feel a government collapse brought about by Buddhist movement could put the country into chaos. The Viet Cong almost certainly would move swiftly into the power vacuum.

Recover Swim Togs

LONDON (AP)—Store owner Henri Ballaperriere told Magistrate's Court the bikini on 16-year-old Christine Collman at a suburban swimming pool had been stolen from his shop three months ago.

"It is the only one of its kind," Henri testified Thursday. He said he spotted it when he went swimming recently.

Christine's mother testified she bought the swimming togs from a street peddler.

"I thought they were a good bargain though at the time I had an idea they might be rejects," she said.

The magistrate acquitted Mrs. Collman of knowingly receiving stolen goods.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Why can't we live our lives backwards? I've been married 27 years to the most wonderful wife in the world, but I didn't appreciate her until now—when it may be too late.

Tomorrow I go to the hospital for surgery—lung cancer. I thought I was indestructible but I realize now how frail is man and how few are his days.

I have spent most of my adult life in the real estate business and I've done my share of cheating. I used to rationalize my affairs—saying "Why not? What have I got to lose?" I even told myself my wife was cool to me, when I knew she had every right to be. I drank a lot and stayed away from home for days at a time.

I know now the only genuine happiness I ever had was with her. I'd give anything to make up to that dear woman the anguish and heartache I've caused her. If God spares me I will spend the rest of my life being a good husband.

Before I go into surgery I shall tell my wife about this letter so she can watch the paper for it. It is something I feel compelled to do. Please, Ann, print this.—W. E. J.

Dear W. E. J.: Here is your letter. My prayers are with you.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been living with Al for eight months. He had one bad marriage and doesn't want to risk a second one. He refuses to marry me unless he is sure we can get along together.

We never quarrel and I am sure he loves me, as I love him. But I hate living this way. I want to be his wife and not his mistress.

On top of all this I have a 9-year-old daughter by a previous marriage. The child is living with her grandmother and I want her here with us. Al likes her very much and is perfectly willing, but I'm afraid to uproot her unless I can offer the security of a home protected by marriage.

Al has a temper and I don't want to rile him. Shall I insist on marriage, or shall I bring my daughter into the house and hope for the best?—AL'S MISTRESS.

Dear Misguided Fool: Don't bring your child into a setup which you know is immoral. She is far better off with her grandmother.

As for you, I urge you to move out and STAY out until you can sign your next letter "Al's wife." He'll never marry you if you settle for the present arrangement. Why should he?

Dear Ann Landers: Are my parents living in the 18th Century? I am 16 and Otis is 18. We have been going together for six months.

When Otis comes to our home for an evening we must sit and visit with my parents or play cards with them. Occasionally when I invite Otis into the den so we can have a private conversation my mother criticizes me for being unsociable.

Last week I was on the telephone with Otis for 15 minutes. My mother made a new rule—a five minute phone limit, and she sets the egg-timer. Last night the egg-timer went off and Otis heard it. Now I think he is mad at me. If I lose him I'll be awfully unhappy with my mother. I need your help.—YVONNE.

Dear Yvonne: Teenagers should not be expected to spend evenings playing cards with parents. I can't imagine anything more boring. And the egg-timer routine is an insult. I don't think a 15-minute phone conversation is out of line—but no longer, please.

Beef, Chicken Top List Of Best Buys

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Beef and chicken bargains make it easy to celebrate June as national barbecue month.

Steaks, hamburger, small roasts, kebab cuts and ribs are all attractively priced candidates this weekend.

One national chain features rib steaks at 69 cents a pound and California roasts are offered by another chain at 49 cents.

Chicken fryers, meanwhile, were pegged at 29 cents a pound in the New York outlets of one chain. These prices are expected to continue low.

Red meat prices—recently at their lowest levels in five years—may start rising before too long, however. This turnabout has shown up in West Coast markets in the form of pork boosts of 3 to 5 cents a pound for loins and 2 to 3 cents for spareribs.

Retail effects haven't shown up everywhere yet, however, and many pork bargains will still be found this weekend.

Beef prices may undergo sort of a sympathetic vibration later, rising once the competitive pressure of cheap pork is eased.

Vegetable offerings this weekend include new potatoes, bell peppers, spinach, squash, tomatoes, cabbage, celery, sweetcorn and carrots.

Fruit counters are brightening with the appearance of blueberries, avocados and cantaloupes to join the starts of recent weeks: watermelon, strawberries and pineapple. Peaches are also showing up in volume and West Coast markets feature plums, apricots, grapes and cherries.

Sugar prices have generally leveled off or declined as wholesale prices edge downward.

KDRO Move Slated For The Weekend

After almost 23 years at the 2100 West Broadway location, KDRO Radio will move into its new quarters June 8. According to station owners, Herb Brandes and Jimmy Glenn, the station will leave the air at 7 p.m. Saturday to return to the air at the usual Sunday morning sign on time of 6:45 from the new location.

The new building located on West Highway 50 at the West City Limits, is made of Brick Veneer with approximately 1700 square feet of floor space on the ground floor and has a full basement providing adequate space for a recreation and meeting room area. The ground floor is comprised of a modern control room, transmitter room, studio, news room plus three large offices. The interior is finished with African Mahogany paneling with all new furnishings throughout.

KDRO Radio was originally founded by Robert S. and Albert Drohlich on Sept. 15, 1939. The station was sold in 1944 to Milton J. Hinkle of Philadelphia, who operated the station until 1957 when it was sold to the newly formed Sedalia Broadcasting Corporation headed by Jimmy Glenn and Herbert Brandes.

Brandes had joined the announcing staff of the original owners, the Drohlich Brothers, in 1942 and has been with the station ever since, taking over in 1946 as general manager under Hinkle and now serves as vice president and station manager.

Glenn joined the staff in the sales department in 1947. Glenn was called back into the service in 1961 for 18 months during the Korean Conflict and upon discharge returned to KDRO. He now serves as president and sales manager.

The present staff of KDRO, in addition to Glenn and Brandes are: Tom Adams, program director; Bob Settles, sales representative; Bob Quinn, news director; Bette Wise, continuity director; Carl Zimmerchied, chief engineer; and Ray Rieder, Bill Hopkins, Gary Dyer, announcers; Winifred Potts, custodian and Garrett Bryan, technical consultant.

A grand opening for the public is planned for later in the summer according to station officials.

HOW'S THIS FOR OWNER SATISFACTION?

91.3 PERCENT OF '63 CHRYSLER OWNERS INTERVIEWED BY A NATIONAL MAGAZINE† SAID THEY WOULD BUY CHRYSLER AGAIN. IT'S BEEN EIGHT YEARS SINCE ANY CAR WAS SO WELL LIKED BY THE PEOPLE WHO BOUGHT IT.

Why? Riding comfort. Handling ease. Power and performance. Clean, crisp styling. These things were named after a total of 1,297,466 owner driven miles, as the outstanding reasons for this overwhelming approval of the '63 Chrysler.

The 5-year or 50,000-mile warranty*—America's longest new-car warranty—was the deciding factor for many owners when they were choosing between a '63 Chrysler and other medium-priced cars.

If you haven't driven a Chrysler recently, why not take an hour today or tomorrow, and give a '63 Chrysler a thorough going-over. You'll find your Chrysler dealer's deal will be just as favorable as your rating of Chrysler.

†Name on request.

*Your authorized Chrysler Dealer's Warranty against defects in material and workmanship on 1963 cars has been expanded to include parts replacement or repair, without charge for required parts or labor, for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, on the engine block, head and internal parts; transmission case and internal parts (excluding manual clutch); torque converter, drive shaft, universal joints (excluding dust covers), rear axle and differential, and rear wheel bearings, provided the vehicle has been serviced at reasonable intervals according to the Chrysler Certified Car Care schedules.

Pair Views Own Life On TV Screen

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—On Monday nights, a dark-haired, dark-eyed divorcee named Irene Kampen and her blonde 17-year-old daughter, Christine, turn their television set on to CBS and for half an hour "have very odd feelings."

"It's our lives we're seeing," explained Mrs. Kampen. "They've changed the specific incidents, but the characters are recognizable and so are the situations."

Mrs. Kampen, a novelist and short story writer, is the author of a funny nonfiction book, "Life Without George," published two years ago. Now it is the basis of "The Lucy Show."

Desi Arnaz had been looking for a suitable vehicle for Lucille Ball for three years before he ran across the book in which Mrs. Kampen described her experiences as a divorcee.

For television, of course, many changes had to be made. Brunette Irene Kampen, divorcee, became red-haired Lucy Carmichael, widow. Lucy was given another child, a son, Jerry. Mrs. Kampen's fellow divorcee who—with son Eric—shared the Kampen home and adventures is named Evelyn. She became Vivian Bagley—played by Vivian Vance—whose son is named Sherman.

The two Kampen cats were abolished. Cats are untrainable and impossible to use in a show filmed before a live audience as is "The Lucy Show." Added, in their place, was a neighbor's dog. But they kept—at least during the past season—Harry, the handy bachelor air line pilot, for a neighbor.

Mrs. Kampen is a former newspaper reporter who wrote the book—her first—to indicate that all divorcees are not sleek sophisticated dames interested in other women's husbands.

She enjoys a nice, one-way correspondence with the program: A hefty check arrives regularly and will continue to arrive as long as the series continues to be shown, even into reruns.

"It's a lovely, painless way to make money," said the writer happily.

"The most interesting part of watching the show is seeing how the writers have used the book as a springboard, and turned real situations into ones specially tailored to Lucy's and Vivian's talents," she said.

A cruel dictator has outlawed laughter and all "laughmakers" have been executed for treason—except one. He is Gerald Q. Wirt, who flees and "bootlegs" laughter to the people. Art Carney plays this "last comedian." Costarred is 10-year-old Johnny Megna, who made a hit on Broadway and in the movie, "To Kill a Mockingbird." "The Triumph of Gerald Q. Wirt" is a Du Pont Show of the Week, Sunday, June 9 on NBC-TV.

Ends Segregation In Tennessee Town

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Clarksville's City Council has authorized desegregation of all public park facilities, Mayor Charles Crow indicated Thursday night.

After a closed session of the council, Crow said it had authorized him to say that all park facilities are open to the public, effective last Saturday. He declined to comment further and would not say why the action was retroactive.

The action affects three public swimming pools, about 10 baseball and softball fields, grills and hiking paths.

Trade War Threat Looms Large In Market Pact

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Americans are looking for a big step forward in cutting costs while increasing their international trade.

A move toward standardization is a bright spot in the recent sea of troubles in which U.S. tariff-cutting policies have been challenged by the European Common Market. Among the worries set off by this has been an intensifying of the always present threat of a trade war.

The American Standards Association says a global standard for American containers is due to be adopted this year by the International Organization for Standardization.

That should help both this nation's domestic transportation and world shipping industries in their struggle to wriggle free of a severe cost-profit squeeze.

Delegates from the American group have met with experts from the Common Market and other European nations and with Far Eastern shipping interests. They say they have convinced them to accept as standard the American containers.

This would permit integrated transportation of goods by standardized containers from Roanoke to Rome, from Akron to Ankara. Americans expect this to open new export markets for their goods, not only in the Common Market, tariffs permitting, and the rest of Europe, but also in the Far East and Latin America.

The standard containers were approved early this year for American industry. They are van containers, either 10, 20, 30 or 40 feet long, 8 feet high and 8 feet wide. In effect the containers are trailers without wheels.

They are fully interchangeable among railroads, trucks and ocean-going vessels.

Domestically, this standardization is counted upon to make a dent in the nation's annual $100-billion cost of transporting, warehousing and distributing consumer and industrial products around the states.

The association estimates that the American transportation industry will spend $12 million for the demountable containers this year, compared with $8 million last year.

If the new standards catch on internationally, the changeover to these containers should push total expenditures much higher next year.

American industry has a long-range hope that annual trade outside the Communist bloc will be by $100 billion higher within 10 years.

This may not come as much of a surprise, but more women than men watch westerns. In fact, women viewers also outnumber men in mystery, suspense and adventure show audiences.

It's a cause for interesting speculation just where and how the adult male spends his evenings, because with the exception of time devoted to sporting shows and events, the men are fewer in number than their spouses. Also, fewer men watch any and all types of TV programs than do the tads, which isn't too startling as the pre-teens see everything.

No one sees much of anything, however, when your set is in poor operating condition. No matter what the trouble, call us on the double. Who is "us"? TED'S RADIO and TV SERVICE, 810½ W. 16th St., of course. Phone TA 7-0544 days, and TA 6-2656 or TA 6-7011 nights. Open 8 to 5 six days.

THE PLOT NEVER VARIES—Generations-old drama played each year on the feast of St. Dominic is a cherished custom in the mountain village of Pretoro, Italy. Highlight of the religiously inspired production is "abduction" of newest baby in the village by a "wolf"—a villager dressed in wolfskin coat. According to legend, the wolf brings back the baby upon the parents' appeal to St. Dominic.

New Plot Smashed In Iran

Was Started To Topple Iranian Shah

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Premier Assadullah Alam said Thursday the government has smashed a new plot aimed at toppling Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi by sabotaging Tehran's vital utilities and educational institutions.

While martial law preserved an uneasy calm, the premier told listeners in a nationwide radio broadcast that plot leaders had been arrested and would be tried.

Two papers reported gunfire near the summer palace outside the city where the shah and his family took shelter.

There were sporadic incidents of violence, but nothing like the rioting Wednesday, which, the coroner said, left 79 dead including 14 in the Moslem holy city of Qum to the south.

Rioters were protesting the shah's program, endorsed by an overwhelming majority of Iranians, for distributing land to poor peasants.

Troops sealed off Tehran's only public cemetery to prevent new demonstrations during the hurried burials of the riot victims.

They also closed off small areas around government buildings after troops had to fire in the air to repel a mob attacking the radio station for the third day in a row. Some of the attackers were dressed in white shrouds as a sign of defiance.

Such mobs, recruited in the bazaars, are available to anyone who can pay them, and for almost any cause.

Kots of them made ineffectual attacks Thursday against three telephone exchanges.

U.S. officials said a jeep belonging to the American military advisory mission was stoned as it drove past Tehran University but no one was injured. Two jeeps were stoned the day before and rioters damaged the Iranian-American student center.

The shah, whose program of taking land away from wealthy landlords including Moslem religious leaders touched off the rioting, was reported safe at his Saadabad summer palace. Officials said he and Queen Farah with their two children drove there, six miles north of the city, at the height of the violence Wednesday.

Conflicts Of Interest Bill Heard

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—A conflicts of interest bill, characterized as a way to give the people more confidence in state government was heard Thursday before Sen. Michael Kinney, D-St. Louis, chairman of the Senate Miscellaneous Bills and Resolutions Committee.

Other members of the committee had to be absent for various reasons, Kinney said.

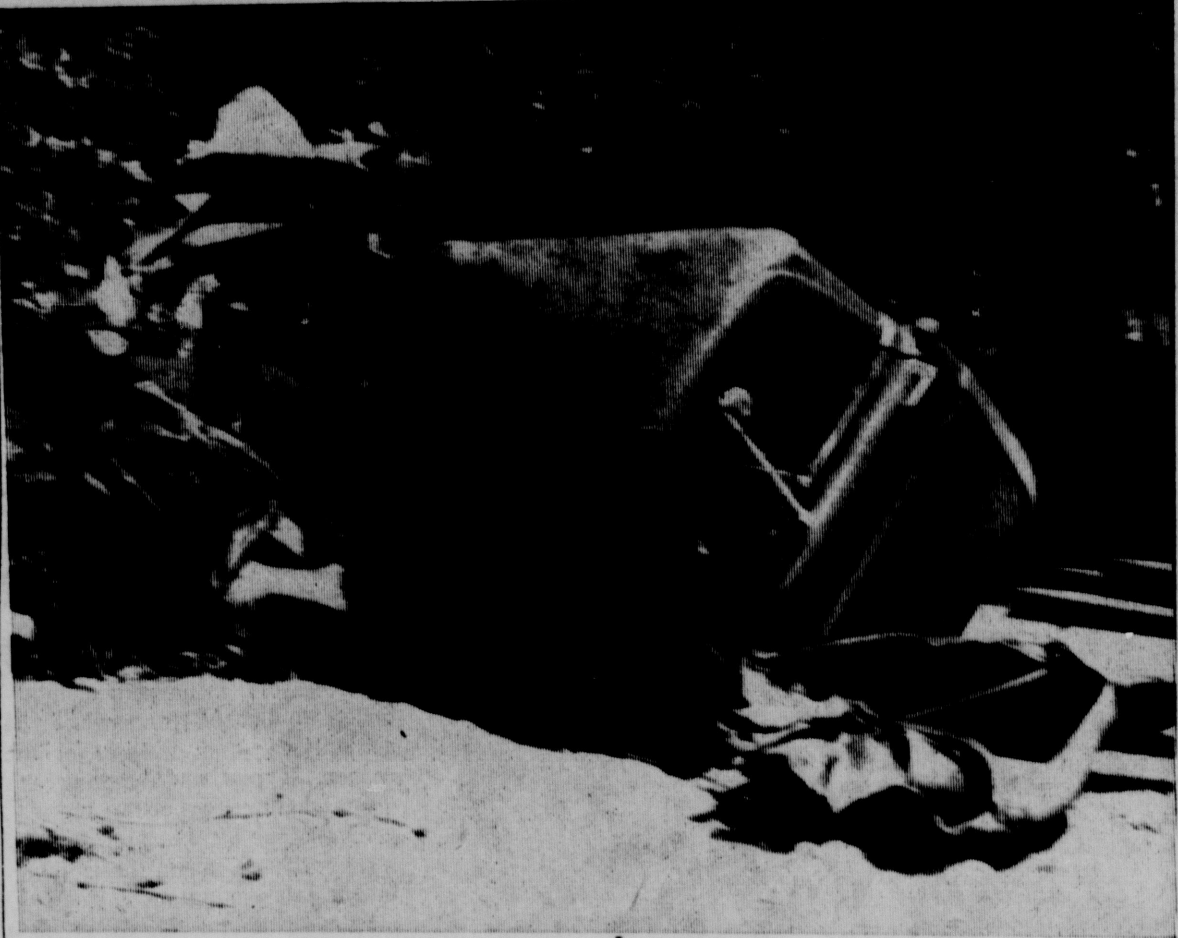

Kinney was on an interim study committee with Richard H. Amberg, publisher of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, who appeared as the main witness for the measure which is designed to prevent public officials from realizing private gain by reason of their office. Kinney was chairman of the study committee and Amberg was vice chairman.

"Fourteen distinguished Missourians and I met for a year to work on the bill," Amberg said. As it now stands after some revision by the House, he said, the measure represents a compromise of the different points of view.

"It's not entirely satisfactory but I think it's one we can all live with and won't inhibit any action by state employees," the publisher said.

Robert R. Welborn, legal assistant to Gov. John M. Dalton, said Dalton feels the bill "represents a long step forward in the manner of regulating conflict of interest in state government."

The bill calls for lobbyists to register their salaries and any money spent on getting legislation passed, would make legislators divulge their financial interest in any pending legislation, and prohibit former state employees from appearing before their former agencies as lobbyists for a period of two years.

THIS WAS the fate of a 1951 Ford truck after tangling with a Katy freight train. The accident occurred about 8:50 a. m. Thursday at a grade crossing on Highway 135 in Cooper

County. The driver of the truck suffered cuts, lacerations and abrasions of the face and head.

Support For Program Is Being Sought

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—President Kennedy called upon the nation Thursday to support his education program and the goal of giving every American child a fair chance, regardless of race.

Kennedy said that "American children today do not yet enjoy equal educational opportunities, for two primary reasons—one economic, the other racial."

Applauding listeners heard him add that "we must move ahead quickly in both areas" in order to meet the goal of "giving every American child a fair chance."

The President's forum was an academic one, at San Diego State College.

Kennedy delivered the commencement address after getting something of a history-making honorary degree.

California's 17 state colleges combined in giving him the first honorary doctor of law degree any of them ever has awarded.

"To be an instant graduate of this college is greatly appreciated," the President said with a chuckle.

After his address, whose passages on racial issues were toned down considerably from the advance version, Kennedy climbed into a helicopter and flew to the San Diego Marine Corps recruit depot for a short course in how a recruit is converted in a few weeks into a tough, fit, fighting man.

This was a prelude to a trip to sea on an aircraft carrier to watch what the Navy can do in amphibious and anti-submarine warfare and in repelling or launching aerial attacks.

Sunday Sales Law Signed by Dalton

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Gov. John M. Dalton signed the controversial Sunday sales law Thursday. It will become effective Oct. 13.

Patterned generally after a Pennsylvania act that has survived court tests, it lists a series of things which cannot be sold on Sunday.

Grocery and drug stores and filling stations could stay open, for example, but department stores and discount houses could not operate.

Department Denial Called 'Fantastic'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., denounced as "fantastic" an Agriculture Department denial that its officials tried to keep secret the list of pesticides being sold without endorsement.

Without naming any of the officials he accused of "bureaucratic blight," Ribicoff told the Senate there have been instances when the officials tried to block public information on products which might be dangerous to humans, animals or crops.

"Officials of the department will not help matters if they try to pretend that mistakes were never made," the senator said.

But Ribicoff absolved Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman of any blame and pointed out that his former Cabinet colleague had directed that all such "protest registrations" be made public.

"It is impossible for a secretary to know everything that is

Coin Club Showing Set June 22-23

The Central Missouri Coin Club will hold its annual coin show in the new air-conditioned Agriculture Building at the Missouri State Fairgrounds Saturday and Sunday, June 22-23, according to President Lloyd Phillips, Vice-President Cecil Schick, and Secretary Harold Garrett, who with other club members are perfecting plans for the event.

The first show, sponsored by the local club, was held one year ago and was such a success that it was decided to make it an annual affair to give the people of Sedalia and surrounding territory an opportunity to see large and varied displays of coins along with an opportunity to buy, sell or trade coins.

Twenty-five dealers, from various parts of the country will have bourse tables and displays of their coins.

Show hours will be from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. on Saturday and 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Sunday.

An auction of over 150 lots of copper, silver and gold coins will be held on Saturday night, starting at 7 p.m. The public is invited to bid on any coin or coins, which will be sold to the high bidder. The coins to be sold in the auction will be on display all day Saturday.

There is no admission charge or registration fee of any kind to attend this show.

Indictment Goes Against Nine Firms

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department announced Thursday the indictment of nine firms doing a $50-million business in bedspreads on charges of illegally conspiring to fix prices.

A federal grand jury in St. Louis, Mo., returned indictment, which also names Fred Nachman Jr., president of Nachman Corp. of Chicago, described as the largest bedspread manufacturer in the United States.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said the indictment charges that companies which produce and sell box springs and innerspring mattresses have been deprived of the benefits of open-price competition as a result of a conspiracy.

Kennedy said the grand jury charged that, between 1958 and 1960, the defendants assertedly met in hotels in St. Louis and Memphis, Tenn., and agreed upon non-competitive prices.

Firms named in the indictment in addition to the Nachman Corp. are:

Joseph Aronauer Inc., Brooklyn, N. Y.; Leggett & Platt, Inc., and The Steady Co., both of Carthage, Mo.; Johnson Spring & Machinery, Chicago; Kay Manufacturing Corp., Brooklyn, N. Y.; Motor City Spring Co., and No-Sag Spring Co., both of Detroit, and the J. R. Greene Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

The indictment said the corporations named as defendants, and unspecified other bedspread companies, named as co-conspirators but not as defendants, produced and sold $50 million worth of bedspreads in 1959.

The maximum penalty possible for a corporate defendant under such an indictment is $50,000 fine. For an individual defendant it is a year in prison and a $50,000 fine.

Disturbance Nets Jail Terms for 5

An altercation, which started about 11:15 p.m. Wednesday night near the Osage Bowman's archery range south of the city near Flat Creek and continued with a disturbance in Sedalia, brought city jail sentences to five youths Thursday morning in Police Court.

Deputy Sheriff Jack Couets was the first law officer to go to the scene south of town and he was joined later by Sheriff Emmett Fairfax.

The trouble originated, the sheriff said, when approximately 25 youths and young men congregated on a gravel road east of the Waterworks Road and were standing in the road when a truck driven by Earl Paxton, 510 East 24th, approached. Paxton had his family with him and did not stop.

It was brought out in testimony in Police Court Thursday morning that some of the group boarded a car and followed Paxton's truck. A short distance later Paxton stopped his vehicle. Paxton told Sheriff Emmett Fairfax he then met one of the youths, identified by the sheriff's department as John DeJarnette, 19, 636 East Broadway, coming from the stopped car.

Paxton said he struck the DeJarnette boy in the face with his fist. The blow knocked out a tooth and damaged others, Fairfax said. DeJarnette was taken to Bothwell

Tough Strategy to Handle Racial Crisis in Alabama

For Summer Session

Meredith Is Back At Mississippi

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—James H. Meredith arrived back at the University of Mississippi on Thursday to register for the summer session.

The 29-year-old Negro, the first known of his race at Ole Miss, found things different than during the long and lonely winter session.

The dormitory quarters included another Negro student, Cleve McDowell, 21.

Meredith, drove his little foreign car by the Law College to pick up McDowell, who had just completed his first class at Ole Miss.

McDowell, coatless with a white shirt and dark tie, had walked to the Law School building unaccompanied—although U.S. marshals watched from a few hundred feet away.

In a television talk Wednesday at Jackson, Gov. Ross R. Barnett said the might of the U.S. government got McDowell into Ole Miss and is now responsible for his safety.

At Baxter Hall, the men's dormitory where both were assigned, McDowell helped Meredith carry his belongings to his room.

Both were ignored by most white students. Some 2,000 of them are expected to register for the summer session—about half of the student population during the fall and spring sessions.

Many incoming students are teachers and others working for higher degrees, which raises the average campus age level and is expected to lead to a relatively calm summer.

McDowell passed through registration Wednesday without incident. He said he didn't even hear a rude remark during the process. When Meredith first arrived on campus last fall, protected by some 400 marshals, it sparked a campus riot that left two men dead and scores wounded.

Water Supply Report To Works Board

Study Four Plans To Extend City's Present Supply

The Board of Public Works at its regular meeting Wednesday night heard a preliminary engineering report on four plans being investigated to extend Sedalia's water supply.

A representative of the Black & Veatch consulting engineers firm in Kansas City appeared before the board and presented findings in regard to reservoirs on Spring Fork Creek, Flat Creek, piping of water from the future Kaysinger Dam near Warsaw and further addition of wells to supplement present water supplies.

Black & Veatch told the board the preliminary report showed the reservoir plans appeared to be the best solution. Costs of piping water from the Kaysinger Dam were pointed out as prohibitive and pumping costs for additional wells would continue to rise through the years.

Board members noted Sedalia's water supply at present is adequate for needs, but that the surplus leeway is too small to be healthy in attracting industry. One of the proposed reservoirs would provide this surplus and lighten the load on present supply sources.

Black & Veatch said the preliminary report fortunately revealed both the Spring Fork Creek and Flat Creek reservoir proposals were feasible and that the board is offered a choice.

A final report on the engineering study by Black & Veatch is expected in approximately two weeks, the firm's representative said.

The board, however, will defer action on the findings until their triennial report is received in mid-July. This report will reveal how much funds are available for the expanded water supply proposals.

Board members hope the reservoir proposal could be started in 1965. Much of the reservoir proposal, including the finances, is only in the talking stages, but the preliminary report provided concrete findings to proceed with. The final report in the next few

Corn Futures Reach Highest Level Yet

CHICAGO (AP)—Corn futures contracts reached their highest levels of the season Thursday as short-covering became brisk and general on the Board of Trade.

Advances ranged to a cent or more in all commodities except oats with nearby soybean deliveries moving up about two cents. Trade volume probably was the heaviest in several days.

Wheat finished 1/2-1 3/4 cents a bushel higher, July $1.85 3/4-1/2; corn 1-1 1/2 higher, July $1.24 1/2-1/2; oats 1/2-1/2 higher, July 66 1/2 cents; rye 1 1/2-1 3/4 higher, July $1.27 1/2; soybeans 1 1/2-2 1/4 higher, July $2.60 1/2-1/4.

But Kennedy Hopes Force Will Not be Necessary

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's strategy for the University of Alabama racial crisis unfolded Thursday:

Force to the utmost if needed, but the administration fervently hopes that no force whatever will be necessary. A high source attuned to the administration's thinking said:

1. Everybody, including the defiant Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, knows that three Negroes are going to be enrolled in the university. But Wallace has pledged to stand in the doorway to prevent desegregation when the showdown comes, presumably next Monday.

2. If Wallace surrounds himself with, say, 500 state troopers, and an approximately equal force of federal marshals faces the troopers, there will be "no shoving match" between the two armed forces. "Somebody could really get hurt then," the Kennedy administration source said.

3. But the Negroes must be admitted, the source said, and he indicated that an overwhelming federal force, presumably troops, would be brought in, if necessary. The source stressed over and over that the question of the use of troops is not up to the federal government but to the governor, who is under a federal court injunction not to interfere with desegregation.

"I don't know at this moment," the administration source said, "just how the students are going to get in, but they are going to get in."

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, the President's chief of staff in dealing with the racial troubles, is working even longer hours than usual. He needs a haircut worse than ever.

At his right hand as he sits in shirtsleeves at his big desk is the white steel helmet of a U.S. marshal. But this is a relic of the past, and Kennedy hopes it is not an omen of the future.

It was worn by a marshal during the bloody troubles when the University of Mississippi was desegregated. It has a large dent in it.

Airliners to Fly Over Cuban Soil

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department announced Thursday that U.S. commercial airliners will be allowed to fly over Cuba for the first time since the October missiles crisis.

The United States had imposed restrictions on flights by U.S. airlines at that time. Cuba never formally acted to bar the flights.

The department noted that airlines of other countries have been flying across Cuba for the past several months without incident.

Agreement Reached On Hot Line Hookup

GENEVA (AP)—American and Soviet communications specialists have reached full agreement on a hot line Teletype circuit intended to prevent accidental war, it was disclosed Thursday.

The agreement has been accepted by the U.S. government and only the Soviet government approval is still needed to start technical work on the unprecedented hookup.

The American and Soviet delegates at the 17-nation disarmament conference and technicians from both sides put the final touches to the agreement at a two-hour meeting on Tuesday.

It took the last of 18 such meetings that took place periodically over the past month on the sidelines of the conference. The agreement is the first achievement of the otherwise deadlocked conference.

U.S. Ambassador Charles C. Stelle and Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin, who are the two co-chairmen of the conference, will give the other delegations formal notice of their agreement as soon as Tsarapkin receives the go-ahead from Moscow.

The other delegations have been completely excluded from the discussions since Tsarapkin announced on April 5 that the Soviet government was prepared to accept the hot line idea first put forward by the United States last year.

The specialists agreed that existing telecommunications facilities should be used for the hot line, including an underwater transatlantic cable between the United States and Britain. The use of existing cables could allow the circuit to go into operation in a matter of weeks, officials said.

The line will pass through Stockholm and Helsinki. The British, Swedish and Finnish governments will be asked to provide the circuits, but they will not have any right to use the hot line.

Both the American and Soviet governments have rejected a British request to be linked into the hot line, at least at the outset.

Youth Had Record In California

Gilbert Thompson, 16 years old, a former Sedalia who San Jose, Calif., police allege murdered and ravished the body of a neighbor has a juvenile record in California according to Chief of Detectives Barton L. Collins of the San Jose police department.

The boy, at the age of 12, was picked up by Sedalia police in April 1959 in connection with an incident in which he was alleged to have, at knife point, forced a Sedalia housewife down an alley between Sixth and Seventh Streets off of Emmett.

It was recalled the youth was quoted as saying his intentions were to rob her. The boy was turned over to Cecil Glenn, juvenile officer, and after a discussion of the case, was released to his parents. It was reported the family left Sedalia a short time later.

Because of the Missouri laws on juveniles, the incident at the time was not released to newspapers. A reporter, however, recalled the incident and because of the seriousness of the California crime and learning of a check being made by California police regarding his record here, the Sedalia

Volcano of Human Affairs

Historians and social scientists probably would agree that most adaptations to important social and economic change have been reasonably managed by conservatives—in America and much of the Western world.

The idea that conservatism somehow operates as a bar to progress just does not fit the facts of history.

Through a great part of America's growth, for example, conservative political figures have been in control. Does anyone dare to suggest that this country stood still in that long, long span?

We all know that we did not.

Many years ago some social scientists devoted a hard weekend of thinking to the problem of how change is managed. The consensus was that generally it occurs through a process of "gradualism."

Not only American history, but British, was cited in illustration. The celebrated British capacity for "muddling through" was seen as a curious talent for effective management of gradual change.

What this amounts to is the ability to judge when the buildup of particular problems has reached the stage where intelligent action is called for. If that action comes, social tensions are eased, and the society moves ahead without undue strain.

Grave trouble comes, say the historians and social scientists, when men in power try to put a lid on change. Then the result may be not peaceful advance but violent explosion.

The French Revolution was such an instance in history. French monarchs had sought for a century or more to arrest the processes of change. Finally the lid blew off.

The sad fact about the violent outbursts is that they almost inevitably lead to excesses which are avoided by the process of sane gradualism. Thereafter valuable energies can be consumed in correcting the excesses.

Those who try to block all change—and who thereby set the scene for social explosions—are not responsible conservatives at all. They are radicals of a sort, as extreme as the radicals at the leftward end.

The radical "conservatives" no doubt persuade themselves that they are busy "preserving the values of the past." But a course which tries to preserve these at the cost of all change leads only to their ultimate destruction by explosion.

Some who resist change believe sincerely they are not simply keeping the status quo for themselves but handing down a "sound heritage" of unchanging values to their descendants and successors. What they are really handing down is the certainty of an explosion.

The instinct of intelligent conservatives is to keep the processes of change under sensible control, to blend the best of the past with elements of the new, to make sure that escape valves for society's tensions are always at work. A people thus guided moves ahead rationally, if slowly.

But total resistance is like a cap on a volcanic cone. Beneath the cap, great counterforce builds. When the inevitable violent upthrust comes, it may engulf everything around the cone—good and bad.

We in America—and our friends in the free West—must thank our stars that we have most often been led by men who could see the peril of total resistance, and chose instead to keep us moving slowly but surely ahead.

Pope John's Creed: World Is Universal

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — For several weeks last spring as he knew he was suffering from an incurable tumor, Pope John closeted himself in his private quarters in the Vatican, working on one of the great encyclicals of all time.

Some of his predecessors have also given the world great messages, as for instance those of Pope Leo XIII and Pope Pius XI, who wrote the encyclicals championing the rights of the workman.

But Pope John's message dealt with the greatest and most elusive goal sought by mankind since the angels over Bethlehem proclaimed the goal of peace on earth to men of good will. He pointed out that the world had become so narrowed by technical science that men must "work together and live as one family."

Nationalism, Pope John admonished, has become old-fashioned and obsolete.

"Today, the universal common good poses problems of worldwide dimensions, which cannot be adequately tackled or solved except by the efforts of public authorities in a position to operate in an effective manner on a worldwide basis."

"What are kingdoms without justice but hands of robbers?" wrote Pope John, quoting Saint Augustine. And those hands of robbers, he made it clear, are now armed with nuclear weapons capable of subjecting the world to mass cremation.

The world will be able to take guidance and inspiration from this rich and crowded message long after Pope John is gone.

Is JFK Too Late?

However, the tragedy is that the first Catholic president in the history of the United States did not take guidance and inspiration from the Pope's wisdom.

This is not to imply that John F. Kennedy was insincere when he told Boston College last month that "as a Catholic I am proud of it (the Pope's encyclical on peace). As an American I have learned from it."

The President does unquestionably cherish a profound desire for peace. But at times he has been timid about it. He has put politics and concern over the criticism of such Republican gadflies as Sen. Ken Keating and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York ahead of his concern over "peace on earth."

In addition, the President is surrounded by Joe Saunders, 29-year-old Peace Corpsman stationed in Tunisia, is a fellow the Internal Revenue Service should latch on to, quick, when he returns to the United States. As a writer, to redo the foggy phraseology of the simplified (?) income tax forms.

Joe found himself in Tunisia with the required W-2 income statements from a former employer and from the Peace Corps. Missing: Income tax forms. Joe solved the dilemma and slashed yards of red tape by making his own form, with three entries:

"I GOT" (listing his 1962 earnings).

"YOU GOT" (listing taxes withheld).

"I SHOULD GET" (with an arrow pointing to the return he felt due him).

Other basic information was complete. And the final fillip was a "Thank you" at the end of his "African short form 1040."

Little Rock, Ark., office of IRS accepted the return. Perhaps it was the "thank you" that really rocked 'em. Thank you's are few and far between at Internal Revenue offices!

sometimes timid men, who feared the Pope had gone too far in talking to Alexei Adzhubei, son-in-law of Premier Khrushchev; and who feared the Pope's doctrine of co-existence would end the cold war and cut the ground out from under the chief reason for U.S. military appropriations.

Finally, the great psychological moment when Kennedy could have taken advantage of the ferment inside the Kremlin was around December 1962, not May 1963. This month, the President is reported joining with Prime Minister MacMillan in proposing to Khrushchev new and conciliatory ways of reaching a nuclear test ban. Their reported plan carries a hint of compromise and a willingness to explore the question of whether three inspections per year on Soviet soil may not be enough.

Red Politics Ebbs and Flows

But it was last winter that the more conciliatory position should have been taken. For politics does not stand still inside the Communist world. The forces for war and peace ebb and flow as much or more than in the capitalist world.

It was from November through January that Khrushchev sent the olive branches to Kennedy indicating that with the withdrawal of Russian missiles from Cuba the two nations should combine to banish international irritants.

It was at that time that some of Kennedy's advisers, who do not belong to the timid school, including ex-Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson with long experience in Moscow; ex-Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, a former ambassador to Moscow; and Ambassador Allai Stevenson, urged him to give Khrushchev something that would strengthen his hand inside the Kremlin, something to show his right-wing Kremlin critics that his policy of cooperation with the United States was paying off.

But the President did not take this advice. Nor did he follow the dictum of his own spiritual leader in the Vatican—until it was too late.

Today all reports from Moscow show that the Khrushchev line of moderation has shifted, that the Red army and the right wing are calling the tunes, and that the tune will feature rough discord for and with the United States.

Many Forces Shape the Revolution

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The revolution taking place in the South now—where segregation is melting—is only part of a revolution around the world these past 10 years.

Many forces—few of them noble or unselfish—have shaped the revolution: Nationalism, fear, money or the lack of it, science, rivalry, education, affluence, poverty, stupidity and even the desire for real estate.

It was only nine years ago that the Supreme Court, very late in American history, laid down the principle that segregation is unconstitutional. The South could have embraced the principle instantly. It chose not to.

It has desegregated slowly under pressure of the courts, troops, public opinion (the North is far from pure on this subject), increasing Negro insistence, and businessmen's realization segregation is bad for business.

It was just 10 years ago that Stalin's death began a quiet revolution in the Communist world. He left it with such a small his successors had to turn on the fan—in this case, denouncing him—to make communism plausible at all.

The Russian people were becoming too educated—and therefore skeptical—to submit indefinitely to the terrorism of Stalin's kind of communism. The de-Stalinization shocked not only the Russians but Communists everywhere.

Destroying the Stalin myth carried with it destruction of some of Moscow's central control. Communist parties in the satellites and elsewhere in turn had to assert some independence to be plausible to their own people.

This opened the door for the various nationalisms to assert themselves, particularly when Moscow acknowledged there's more than one road to communism.

Moscow lost more control when it was financially unable to meet the needs of its satellites. This inability in part was due to its enormous use of men and resources to compete with the United States in space and nuclear weapons.

Although they kept arming, the Russians now seemed less eager for war because they had reached an affluence they were reluctant to risk in nuclear destruction.

The United States and Russia, out of fear of being outdone, made fantastic strides in science and the exploration of space although it is almost certain neither would be half so advanced if they hadn't dreaded each other so much.

The Red Chinese, no where near as affluent as the Russians and therefore less conservative about risks, have split with Moscow for not being belligerent or aggressive enough. They call it an ideological difference.

Ideology is probably a minor factor. A more practical one is the desire for more food and real estate which are available in Southeast Asia and which the Red Chinese no doubt will try to take when they feel strong enough.

The Chinese calling themselves better Marxists than the Russians looks more like an attempt at self-justification, for what they have in mind, than any real concern nese no doubt will try to take when they feel strong enough.

The Doctor Says

Bath Oil Is Boon for Sufferers With Dry Skin

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Since I wrote about the treatment of very dry itching skin, I have learned of a water-dispersible bath oil (Sardo) that can be added to the bath water.

Dr. L. A. Dick of the New York University Postgraduate Medical School used it on a series of 100 children with dry skin. They used the oil in their bath daily, and used little or no soap.

There was marked improvement within seven to 14 days but, if the treatment was discontinued, the dryness and itching returned.

Q—What causes the eyes to get bloodshot? What causes painless hemorrhage in the white of the eye?

A—Bloodshot eyes may be due to excessive fatigue, over-indulgence in alcohol, diseases of the conjunctiva, and diseases of the cornea. If rest and soothing eye drops don't clear them up, see your doctor.

Hemorrhage under the conjunctiva is fairly common.

When it is not the result of a blow in the region of the eye, it may be caused by sneezing or anything else that would put a sudden strain on the pressure in the capillaries of the eye. It often appears to occur spontaneously.

This condition does not affect the vision, and clears up in 10 to 14 days without treatment.

Q—I have taken an antihistamine drug for six years for a severe allergy. My doctor shows no interest in finding the underlying cause. Is there any drug other than an antihistamine that I could take that is not a depressant?

A—Finding the cause of an allergy is usually a very time-consuming job, and requires special training and equipment.

If you did not go to an allergist, your chances of finding the real cause of your trouble would be poor.

All antihistamines are depressants but, when taken in moderate doses, they usually control the allergy without producing noticeable depression.

There are many kinds of allergy and many remedies for each kind, in addition to the antihistamines.

Your best bet would be to place yourself in the hands of a good allergist. Your county medical society should be able to give you the names of two or three.

Q—My mother has been ill for two years. Her doctor says she has collagen disease. How does this differ from Hodgkin's disease?

A—The group of diseases referred to as collagen diseases includes lupus erythematosus, periarthritis nodosa, rheumatoid arthritis, rheumatic fever, erythema nodosum, and purpura.

All of these conditions are characterized by disorders of the collagen, which is the gelatinlike protein found in skin, muscle tendons, bones, cartilage, and connective tissue. The small blood vessels are also involved.

Hodgkin's disease is a type of cancer that affects the lymph nodes. About the only thing these conditions have in common is that they both cause fever.

Q—What is the cause and treatment of night sweats?

A—The commonest cause of night sweats is pulmonary tuberculosis, but they may be associated with any disease that causes a generally rundown and weakened condition.

The hot flushes and sweating of the menopause also occur in the daytime, but in many women are worse at night.

The treatment would have to be aimed at removing the cause.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: Our sixth grade girl is worrying over final exams. We don't understand this. She has always passed them. But she gets nervous and upset even over monthly tests. Before final exams, she sleeps badly and can't eat without throwing up. Do you have any ideas of how to help her through her exam periods?

Answer: Yes, I have an idea.

father likes to go fishing and often goes to Turkey Creek.

Playing house with a little girl in the neighborhood one day, his mother heard him say to the little girl, whom he was playing like was his wife: "I'm going fishing."

"Where are you going to go fishing?" the little girl wanted to know.

"Oh," he said, trying to imitate his dad, "I think I'll go to Chicken Creek."—H.L.

THE KID was told to pop some popcorn and so he put the corn in the popper. Pretty soon there was popcorn going every which way over the kitchen.

"Why didn't you put the lid on?" asked his mother.

"Well, you told me to put the corn in the popper," he said, "but you didn't tell me to put the lid on."—H.L.

THE WOMAN had called her son long distance—and the distance was really long. She talked to him for a few minutes and then her grandchild wanted to talk, so when she got through she asked to talk to her son again.

"All right," said the grandson, "I'll get him."

She waited and waited and waited and finally he came to the telephone.

"Where in the world were you?" she wanted to know.

"Well," explained the son, who is a teacher in a college, "I was half way across the campus on my way to a class—was there something you wanted?"

"No," said the mother, who had visions of what her telephone bill was going to be after all that waiting. "I just wanted to tell you goodbye." By that time, if she had had anything she wanted to tell him she would have forgotten it, and she didn't care about prolonging the conversation any further—when she said she wanted to tell him goodbye—now she really meant it.—H.L.

"Ricky just won't take no for an answer! I told him I was through with him and he keeps right on taking me out!"

EXPERT TOOLING by Lon R. Slaton turned out the device he calls "the world's most useless necessity," which he is showing to his wife. The item, a conversation piece par excellence, is being sold now throughout the nation. Mr. Slaton makes these and other inventions and items for the Slaton home in the "Dog House" behind their home at 1614 South Park.

THERE! "That's where we used to live," says Shirley Marriott, of a spot on a map of Fort Riley, Kan. Sitting with her on a divan in their living room, are her parents, Erna and Melvin Marriott. Mr. Marriott may be a little young for retirement; however, it's only from the United States Army that he is retired after 20 years. He is now training for the parts business with a local automobile firm.

Retirement Hasn't Slowed Busy Lives

By MURRY ENGLE

RETIREMENT today can be a free-wheeling thing. The people interviewed for this story are far from ready to be put on the shelf. The only things on their shelves are of beauty and use in their mobile, modern way of living.

The subjects of this story are, if anything, more active than ever. In fact, you don't have to be old to retire anymore, as you will see in these photographs.

These people are using their retirement time for things they enjoy. They have planned their leisure years for fun, friends and the good things of life.

Kept Busy

"We just don't have the time to do everything we'd like," says Mrs. Lon R. Slaton of their years of retirement. The Slatons came here from Kansas City to live, "Because it's home to us."

Mr. Slaton was reared in Hughesville and spent many years primarily in the mercantile business. Mrs. Slaton taught school at Mark Twain for several years. In Kansas City, Mr. Slaton was in the auto parts business and Mrs. Slaton did payroll processing for a firm in Kansas City, Kan.

Each of the Slatons has many interests. They purchased their home at 1614 South Park and have redecorated it and added to its comforts. A small back porch has been added to the structure. There they can sit and look over a patio and walk of 625 bricks, which they laid; a deep yard carpeted with thick new grass; Mrs. Slaton's carefully landscaped borders of flowers; and birds making use of a hand-crafted bird house and splashing in a birdbath.

Own Dog House

The brick walk leads to a cement block house in the back yard which is Mr. Slaton's "Dog House." He's in there a lot, but not because he's in any trouble with Mrs. Slaton. She is quite proud of him and the work he does. A little potbellied coal stove heats the shop, where power and hand tools for an infinite variety of jobs are neatly arranged. A radio provides background music and Mrs. Slaton provides cooking and inspiration.

Mrs. Slaton, a gardener, also likes to sew. On one of the four-postered beds in the house, is a quilt-spread of camelia design. Both the Slatons like to fish and Mr. Slaton has invented a lure retriever. Another of his deceptively simple inventions is being used in scientific industries.

Considering the prolific array of projects, it is easy to see the Slatons are not going to run out of enjoyable things to do for their lifetime.

Here From Africa

Detouring through South Africa, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Vick, who are from Missouri, are now among Sedalia's best civic boosters. Mr.

Vick was reared in Bunceton and Mrs. Vick's family lives in Kansas City.

Throughout the Vicks' married life, they resided in metropolitan areas. Mr. Vick was a hosiery manufacturer in New York City before his retirement.

They went to live in Durban, South Africa, for ten years for a change of scenery and to be with their daughter, Mrs. Barbara Moore, who works there. Africa is an unforgettable interlude with servants and a unique way of living. Unrest in the African political atmosphere, and a longing to return to this part of the world backed up a decision made long ago by the Vicks.

"Darn Good Town"

The two had always said when they retired they didn't want to live in the country and they had had enough of city life. "Sedalia is just the right size," says Mr. Vick, "and besides, it's a darn good town."

In Sedalia they find enough to satisfy their cosmopolitan and individual tastes. Mrs. Vick spends much time working in her garden and belongs to Garden Club 2. Mr. Vick is a member of the Kiwanis and they both are Knife and Fork in enthusiasts. Their church membership is at Calvary Episcopal. They are contributing to the community and like what the community has to contribute in these pleasant years of their lives.

Retirement Age Lower

Average retirement age is getting lower all the time. In an era of industrial revolution, high ambition, and hard working people, total or partial retirement, or completion of one career and switching to another are more and more common at an early age.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Marriott and their daughter, Shirley, have come to Sedalia to live after his retirement from the United States Army. They still have most of a lifetime before them. Marriott was an E7 (sergeant), most recently stationed at Fort Riley, Kan.

Erna comes originally from Czechoslovakia. Her family was evacuated to the East Zone of Germany at the end of World War II. She was then 14 years old.

Later, Erna's mother moved to the Black Forest. But it was at Ashaffenburg that she met Melvin and they both are Knife and Fork in and have spent much of the time locating wherever the Army sent them.

Native of Stover

Melvin is a native of Stover and his family is still there. He is now "taking a whack" at training for auto parts work at a local automobile firm, starting a career related to his Army supply work.

The Marriotts have been here only two months and Sedalia is still new to them. Shirley already has friends playing in her yard and the family is accustomed to making friends wherever they go.

Erna and Melvin are hoping to join a square dance club. Real retirement is something for their future, and Sedalia is their choice for this one.

Before choosing a retirement home, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Greenhaw traveled the length and breadth of the country, looking for an ideal place. They didn't like the densely populated cities or climates of other places which receive publicity about their ideal locations. Careful consideration was given many spots.

Sedalia's altitude of around 800 feet-above-sea level is just right, according to Mr. Greenhaw, who retired from mail ordering for a national firm because of health.

"Even Missouri's climate is ideal," he says. Springfield was his home, but the elevation there is a shade too high.

Sedalia has everything the Greenhaws need and is centrally located to the Ozarks and other places they like to visit.

"We plan to stay here," say the adopted Sedalians. "We like the people we've met. The parks are beautiful, Sedalia has good hospitals, doctors, schools and an excellent library. The water, in particular, is good."

Mrs. Greenhaw was fine arts chairman of Maryland's Federated Women's Clubs and finds many things of interest in this area. Both she and her husband are drawn to the study of archaeology and hope to visit the University of Missouri's "dig" at Lyman Research Center at Van Meter Park near Miami this summer. Mrs. Greenhaw does genealogical research and finds much of her material in the local library.

The Greenhaws have purchased their home. Paneling, bookcases, a fireplace and attractive decorating make it a comfortable base for active retirement.

AVID READERS. Mr. and Mrs. Horace Greenhaw, who came here from Baltimore, spend a chilly spring evening reading together in their home at 416 South Grand. Mr. Greenhaw is delving into a history of "The Renaissance" by Will Durant, a book he borrowed from the Sedalia Public Library. History is also a favorite subject of Mrs. Greenhaw. She is ready to open a copy of the "Missouri Historical Review."

ZULU PLAQUES are shown here by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Vick. They are talking together of their ten years in South Africa, when many of their servants were Zulu natives. These are well-crafted likenesses say the couple, who are now residents of Sedalia. (Democrat-Capital photo)

Pro-Communists Are Sought By Caracas Police

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Hundreds of Venezuelan police sought eight pro-Communists who Wednesday burned the U.S. Army mission, stripped occupants to their shorts and knifed a portrait of George Washington.

Three youths found loitering around the fire-blackened remains of the rambling, one-story Spanish colonial building were arrested for questioning. One had fresh paint on his hands, possibly the paint used to smear the mission walls with the initials FALN.

FALN stands for the Armed Forces of National Liberation, a leftist, pro-Castro underground movement campaigning to overthrow President Romulo Betancourt with terrorist attacks on government and business installations.

Defense Minister Antonio Briceño Linares called on U.S. Ambassador C. Allan Stewart and expressed official regret.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said the loss was small. The building was leased from the Venezuelan armed forces.

incident was released by the reporter. The name of the Sedalia victim who was not attacked but who gained her freedom from the youth, is not being used in order to save her embarrassment.

Detective Chief Collins in giving out information regarding the California crime, said the youth was alleged to have slashed his victim's throat and then ravished the body. He reported the victim was identified as Mrs. Mary Ellen Stackhouse, 30-year-old neighbor of the youth's family.

Collins reported the youth admitted killing his attractive neighbor Monday with a hammer and knife, in the downstairs portion of the Stackhouse residence while her six children were upstairs asleep.

The woman was a part-time cocktail waitress at the Moffett Naval Air Field where her husband is stationed. Her husband, James, is attending a naval school at Memphis, Tenn., on temporary assignment.

Thursday morning the Pettis County Recorder's office received a telegram request from Robert E. Nino, chief juvenile probation officer of San Jose, Calif., asking verification of Thompson's birth.

The recorder's office does not keep birth information, but a deputy, Mrs. Naomi Brown checked with Mrs. Lynn Shelby, who is state registrar here.

Mrs. Shelby's records revealed Thompson was born here Sept. 8, 1946 at Bothwell Hospital. His parents were David Bern Thompson and Emma Louise Burk Thompson. The records listed his father as being from Hattiesburg, Miss., and his mother from Sedalia. The family was residing at 1830 South Beacon at the time of the boy's birth.

Disturbance

Hospital for treatment, but did not remain there.

After the incident in the county some of the boys followed Paxton and his family into Sedalia. Paxton filed complaints against six of them for creating a disturbance in the vicinity of his home after they were picked up and arrested by Sedalia Police officers. They were held overnight in the city jail.

Appearing in court before Judge U. L. Howerton Thursday morning the boys related they were at the Broadway Drive-In, Broadway and Thompson, late Wednesday night when in the words of one of the youths: "Somebody said there was action at Knuckle Hill. So we cut out and went out there to watch," he said.

But, the youths related, the fight did not materialize and that the group was standing in the road when the Paxton vehicle approached.

Judge Howerton found five persons guilty of disturbing the peace later in the vicinity of the Paxton home, sentenced them to 10-day jail terms and gave 30-day suspended jail sentences in case they disturb Paxton in the future.

Jailed were: Herbert Jerome Case, 17, 910 West Fourth; Donald Alfred Buckley, 21, 1901 South Montauk; Larry James Murphy, 17, 1501 1/2 South Ohio; Delbert Leroy Arnold, 20, 804 West Henry; and Glen Elihu Dickinson, 21, Route 1.

A sixth person, Martin Lewis Witte, 27, Route 1, Stover, was given a suspended 10-day jail sentence after the other five youths testified he was merely a passenger in their car. The youths testified Witte was picked up along the road.

All of those involved had entered innocent pleas.

Circuit Court

Three damage petitions asking a total of $42,000 were filed Thursday afternoon in Pettis County Circuit Court. The suits evolved from a car-school bus collision on a narrow county road about eight miles southwest of Sedalia on the morning of May 9.

Named as defendants in the petitions were Ben Townsend, owner of the school bus, and Gordon McDowell, the bus driver.

Rosalie Meyer, wife of the driver of the car, asks $25,000 and her husband, William Jackson Meyer, asks $5,000 in the first petition.

In a second petition, Meyer seeks $5,000 and his wife, is asking $2,000.

Polly Ann Stotts, a minor acting through a next friend, Eola Meyer, asks $5,000 from the defendants in her petition. She was a passenger in the school bus.

George H. Miller is attorney for the plaintiffs.

Carolyn Rogers filed a petition seeking a divorce from Vennis Rogers in Circuit Court June 5. Durely and Keating are her attorneys.

Sandra Sue Allen, a minor, was granted a $12,000 judgement in Circuit Court Thursday in the settlement of a damage suit against defendant Robert William Chambers.

The suit evolved from an auto accident on south Highway 65 on April 27, 1962.

E. J. Murphy was her attorney. Robert S. Gardner was attorney for the defendant.

Accidents

Eighteen stitches were reportedly needed to close a laceration of the right hand suffered by 12-year-old Carey Lynn Preisendorff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Preisendorff, Jr., 407 East Harvey, after an accident about 2:48 p. m. Thursday.

Police were called to escort young Preisendorff to Bothwell Hospital where he was given emergency treatment by Dr. J. W. Maunders. He was not admitted to the hospital.

The injury reportedly occurred while Preisendorff and another youth were whittling on tree branches.

County School Superintendent Bill Passes

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—A bill to let voters in about 54 counties abolish the office of county school superintendent was passed by the Senate Thursday.

The vote sending it to the House was 18-10. The House killed a similar bill without the local option provision earlier.

Under the measure sponsored by Sen. John E. Downs, D-St. Joseph, counties with only one or two common school districts would have the issue on their primary election ballots and voters could decide whether they wanted to keep the office.

County superintendents in counties where all or most of the school districts are reorganized have only paper duties and the last two governors have declined to fill vacancies in such counties when they occurred.

The House revived and passed a bill to expand the manpower training program.

It also sent to the Senate a revised version of a bill to set up a court of the judiciary to pass on the qualifications of judges.

The House also learned officially that the governor's bill to set up a system of chemical tests to determine a driver's sobriety is dead. Rep. Lynn Ewing, D-Vernon County, chairman, reported his Judiciary Committee had killed the bill.

Resolution Opposes License Revocation

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—The House adopted by voice vote Thursday a resolution opposing the Federal Communications Commission's revocation of St. Louis radio station KWK's license.

Rep. Harry C. Raiffe, D-St. Louis, introduced the resolution asking the FCC to review its decision and to exact some lesser punishment.
